Irrigating corn

Area farmers have had to rely on irrigation in recent weeks in an attempt to save crops that are drying up from a lack of rain. Pastures are reported to be showing the effects and corn is showing the brown, turned up leaves of drought stress. Farmers say that unless their crops receive rain soon, the damage could be serious and irrepairable. (Daily Standard photo)

Carter's energy tax package in shambles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Much of President Carter's energy tax package is in a shambles following a flurry of House Ways and Means Committee votes that handed the administration a major defeat.

The influential committee voted Thursday to throw out Carter's plans for a standby gasoline tax, a tax on cars that get poor mileage and a program of rebates for people who buy cars that get good mileage.

But the administration is looking for some of the decisions to be reversed, and still is holding out hope for a stiff tax on crude oil.

"We will probably re-evaluate our position when we get to the Senate," said Laurence Woodworth, Carter's assistant treasury secretary for tax policy, after watching the committee administer the first of the thcee defeats on Thursday.

Still to come is consideration of what some in the Carter administration view as the most important part of the President's tax package: a new tax on crude oil designed to make energy more expensive and thus force conservation. This would result in an estimated 7.6-cent hike in the cost of a gallon of gasoline.

Whatever the committee does is subject to reconsideration by the committee itself as well as by the House and the Senate. But for the moment, the President's plan is listing badly.

In Thursday's action, the committee:

— Rejected, 27-10, Carter's proposed 50-cent per gallon standby tax on gasoline. The tax would have been imposed in five-cent a year increments only if gasoline conservation goals were not met.

— Rejected, 31-5, the President's plan to pay buyers of fuel-efficient cars up to $500 as a reward for energy conservation.

— Rejected, 24-13, Carter's plan to place a tax of up to $2,-500 on cars that get poor gasoline mileage. By the same vote, the panel substituted its own tax, a watered-down version that would delay the tax until 1979 and then apply it only to the most wasteful cars.

Although Carter didn't request it, the committee voted 18 to 17 to take away the federal income tax deduction of state and local gasoline taxes. The deduction has been available only to those who itemize deductions. This plan, which passed the House two years ago but narrowly failed in the Senate, would cost drivers some $700 million more a year.

Another committee alternative to the Carter program did not fare so well. On a 25-11 vote the panel rejected an amendment by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D+Ill., to raise the four-cent per gallon federal gasoline tax to seven cents next Jan. 1.

The lopsided margin by which the proposed rebates to buyers of fuel-efficient cars was cejected was no surprise — a big chunk of the rebate money would have gone to buyers of small foreign cars at the expense of American manufacturers.

But the overwhelming size of the votes against the President's so-called gas-guzzler tax and standby gasoline tax was a surprise and indicated little chance the committee would reverse itself when it puts the tax bill in final form later this month.

6 injured in accidents, 1 seriously

One person was seriously injured, two sustained moderate injuries and three suffered minor injuries in five accidents Thursday on area roads, Troop E of the Missouri Highway Patrol reports.

A one-vehicle accident at 10:15 a.m. Thursday on an unmarked county road three miles east of Wyatt resulted in minor injuries to the driver. A truck driven north by Ronald Wayne May, 20, of Charleston, overturned when the driver failed to negotiate a cuve, the patrol reported. May was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

A Mississippi man was taken to Hayti Medical Center with minor injuries following a tire blow-out at 12:45 p.m. Thursday. The vehicle, driven by James A.

Court voids ban on sale of contraceptives to teens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government cannot stand in the way of teen-agers who want to buy nonprescription contraceptives, the Supreme Court says.

But the nation's highest court apparently is not as sure about what rights, if any, parents have to block their child's access to such birth control devices.

The court split 7-2 as it ruled Thursday that states may not bar the sale of contraceptives to children, striking down a New York law that cut off access to contraceptives for youngsters under 16.

In the same decision, the court ruled that states cannot tell adults where they must buy contraceptives and cannot ban the display or advertising of birth control devices.

Only four of the seven justices who voted to strike down the New York law, however, decided that youngsters enjoy the same right to privacy as adults when it comes to making decisions about childbirth and contraception.

Those four were Justices William J. Brennan, Harry A. Blackmun, Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall.

Justices Lewis F. Powell Jr., Byron R. White and John Paul Stevens indicated in separate concurring opinions that they might favor a state law requiring teen-agers to get their parents' consent before buying contraceptives.

If joined by Thursday's two dissenters, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice William H. Rehnquist, those three justices could forge a new court majority in similar cases.

"The matter of a minor's right to privacy in this area is far from settled," said Janet Benshoff of the American Civil Liberties Union, which filed the brief urging that the New York law be struck down.

"There are some dangerous aspects that need to be resolved, such as required consultation with parents," she said.

Revision of state election laws appears headed for passage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State financing of transitions between incoming and outgoing statewide elected officials and the massive revision of Missouri's elections laws appear headed for ultimate passage following action by the state Senate.

But the Senate refused to accept a House-approved requirement for a public referendum on proposed tax breaks for parents sending their children to private elementary and high schools. The Senate asked that the public-vote provision be stripped from the bill by the House, many of whose members were adamantly opposed to the tax break measure without it.

In other action Thursday, the Senate rejected for a second time creation of a state energy research agency in the Department of Natural Resources, critics contending it would duplicate efforts of the Federal Energy Administration and a special legislative panel the upper chamber had agreed to form earlier this year.

The House, meanwhile, endorsed and sent to Gov. Joseph Teasdale property tax breaks for persons renovating their homes and sales tax advantages under certain circumstances for persons buying new cars.

The tax abatement measure would exempt from property tax assessment any renovation project for five years after it is begun. It would also apply to apartment buildings with up to four units. The proposal is intended to serve as an incentive for persons to maintain their property and head off urban blight.

The sales tax revisions would allow a person to pay sales tax only on the difference between the cost of a new car and his trade-in allowance if the trade-in is $200 or more. The current minimum is $500. It would also prohibit charging any sales tax when a person trades in a more expensive used car for a cheaper new one and permit deduction in calculating sales tax owed of the price a person gets for selling his used car privately from the price of a new car if he buys it within 30 days.

East Prairie council adopts drug ordinances

EAST PRAIRIE — Ordinances pertaining to drug abuse and penalties for conviction were adopted, a decision to hire an additional policeman was made and appointments to the city boards were approved Thursday night by the City Council.

The first of two ordinances adopted declared it unlawful to sell, possess, manufacture or have under control any controlled substance or possession of any apparatus or device for use of any narcotic drugs.

The second ordinance set the maximum punishment for a drug-abuse conviction at a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment not to exceed three months or by both fine and imprisonment.

Prior to Thursday night, the city did not have an ordinance dealing with drugs. Persons arrested on drug charges had to be turned over to county officials for prosecution.

Following a lengthy discussion, the council decided to hire an additional policeman at a starting salary of $600 per month.

With the additional patrolman, the department will have nine fulltime men. The new officer will be assigned to work, four days and one night shift.

It had been pointed out that Police Chief Jake Abner and officer Bill Aycock each worked two day-shifts alone, and another officer was needed to check parking meters. It was also stressed that one officer could not adequately handle routine matters and any emergency situation that might occur.

The council approved a $25 per-month salary increase for chief Abner to compensate him for the loss of dog- catching fees. Previously Abner had been paid $2 per dog for each animal he picked up and disposed of.

The city now has a fulltime dog catcher, Raymond Grimes whom the council commended for doing a good job in ridding the city of stray animals.

His position eliminates the need for Abner picking up animals.

A 10 per cent salary increase was also approved for nighttime radio dispatchers.

The request was made by dispatchers Katherine Edwards and Oline Clark, since their salaries and that of other dispatchers were not increased last month when other city employes received pay raises.

Mrs. Edwards, who is also jail matron for women prisoners, was denied a clothes allowance and told to keep a record of ac-

County Clerk Bob Kielhofner said that since the county has no housing authority it had to align itself with an existing authority in the county and the court chose Sikeston.

The housing will be located around the county. Persons wishing to apply for funds for the units should contact Hanna.

Would-be firing range collects trash

What started out as a worthwhile project and an opportunity for area law enforcement agencies to have a small arms firing range in Sikeston has turned into a dump. Area National Guardsmen spent countless hours, weekend after weekend, hauling dirt for a structure to enclose the range and moved thousands of cubic yards of dirt, shaping it and doing most of the work required to build the range. The last dirt was hauled about two months ago and all the range does is accumulate garbage. (Daily Standard photos)

Intruder is chased from Sikeston home

A Sikeston man chased an intruder from his home at 11:10 p.m. Thursday, according to the Public Safety Department.

James Brewer, 108 W. Gladys St., told officers he was in the kitchen looking in the refrigerator when he heard the screen door open. He said he thought it was just the wind, until he heard the floor board pop.

He said he looked into the living room and saw a foot.

Brewer told officers he said "Oh my God," and the intruder fled out the living room door. Brewer said he chased the man but could not catch him.

Jackson arrested for arson try

Thomas Jackson, 214 Felker St., has been arrested for attempted arson, following an alledged firebomb attack against a house in the 200 block of Felker Street.

The attack occurred about 12:10 a.m. at the Robbie Atkins home, 222 Felker St.

Witnesses told officers that the firebomb bounced off the wall of the house and did no damage.

DETROIT — SO FAR, SO GOOD

Some decades after the deterioration of the nation's central cities became a matter of universal concern, the verdict is still out on the question of whether any combination of public andprivate efforts can reverse the trend.

The single most ambitious urban renewal project so far is Detroit's Renaissance Center, the $337-million privately financed brainchild of Henry Ford II and other civic- minded business leaders.

The soaring complex, consisting of four 34-story office towers surrounding a central 73-story hotel — a third again as big as New York's Rockefeller Center — recently opened for business. If early figures on the extent of that business are as indicative of the future as is the architecture of Renaissance Center itself, it may well live up to its optimistic name.

Both retail space occupancy, at 58 per cent, and office occupancy, at 75 per cent, are well above projections. Occupancy of the 1,400-room hotel, the Detroit Plaza, has been running at 70 per cent. More importantly, some 416 major conventions have been booked by the hotel through 1981, conventions which will b ring in tens of millions of dollars.

But while some of this money will spill over into the rest of the downtown area, skeptics note that the flight of businesses out of the city continues, including one of Detroit's two major department stores,which will close its downtown building this summer.

And while Renaissance Center is generally acclaimed as an architectural triumph, critics contend that its design and location on the Detroit River, separated from downtown by a 10- lane highway, make it too aloof and fortresslike.

In short, while the economic success of Renaissance Center itself looks assured, the same cannot yet be said of the city whose rebirth it was intended to inspire and lead.

It should be noted, however, that nearly $450 million in major construction projects in addition to Renaissance Center were underway in Detroit in 1976.

Again, it is much too early to render a verdict. Renaissance Center is, after all, meant to be but the beginning of and catalyst for an on-going process of revitalizing the nation's fifth largest city. And what a dramatic beginning it is.

They waited a day, a week, a month, until, finally, a year had gone by. Still their companion did not return. One turtle said to the other, "He's not coming back. SINGLE-SEX SCHOOLS

By PHYLLIS SCHLAFLY
Copley News Service

It is doubtful that the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision upholding the right of the Philadelphia public school system to maintain one all-girls' school and one all-boys' school will end the controversy about the legality, the propriety or the desirability of single-sex schools and colleges.

There are more than 100 all-female colleges, a few all-male colleges, and no one really knows how many all-girls' and all-boys' elementary and secondary schools. Most are private schools or colleges; a handful are tax-supported.

It is obvious that the majority of Americans prefer coed schools and colleges. The question is, should we permit the majority to stamp out the rights of the minority who freely choose to attend single-sex schools? Should we brand the single-sex school and college as an anachronism not relevant to modern needs? Or as an embarrassing evidence of a sexist society?

Since Brown v. Board of Education proclaimed in 1954 that "separate but equal(is) inherently unequal" in regard to race, segregation by race has been prohibited in all educational institutions. Must this same rule be applied to sex? Should segregation by sex come within the definition of the offense labeled sex discrimination.

Those who are trying to build what they call a "gender-free society," and who look upon a revamping of our eduational system as the principal vehicle of achieving that goal, would answer yes.

Congress answered no when it passed Title IX of the Education Amendments in 1972. After a hot debate on this issue, Congress opted for diversity in education rather than conformity.

The ardent advocates of a total mandate against all sex discrimination or segregation fought hard against this decision. The sponsor of Title IX, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., made it clear in Senate debate that he considered the exemption of single-sex schools and colleges only a practical and temporary expedient to secure passage of Title IX.

Bayh's Senate speech included such grudging remarks as "admissions policies ... are temporarily exempted until further study can be made as to the feasibility of requiring that all admissions policies be sex neutral," and "these exemptions will not be supportable after further study and discussion."

Actually, when Congress and the Supreme Court separately concluded that the law should not interfere with the freedom of choice to attend single-sex schools or colleges, they showed a proper respect for the national consensus already becoming evident.

A decade ago, the elimination of single-sex schools and colleges appeared to be the wave of the future. Many of the most prestigious colleges succumbed to the coed movement, including Yale,Princeton, Dartmouth and Vassar.

But the reports of the death of the single-sex college were, to borrow Mark Twain's famous phrase, "greatly exaggerated." Many single-sex colleges not only have resisted the trend but have rediscovered their own identity.

The president of Mount Holyoke College, for example, states: "Coeducation is neither an inevitable nor better status. It would be a disaster for this country if every institution were coeducational, because it would be one more step toward destroying the diversity which is essential to educational strength and therefore toward reducing the entire enterprise to a dead mediocrity."

The president of Smith College argues that women's colleges "tend to take women's intellectual abilities and aspirations more seriously than other institutions."

Women's colleges enthusiastically circulate what is known as the Tidball Study which provides evidence that high achievers among females tend to be graduates of women's colleges. The distinguished achievement record of single-sex schools and colleges clearly proves that sex segregation is not the same offense as race segregation.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Inside Analysis:
..Some top union chiefs begin talking of a New National Labor Party

WASHINGTON— This nation is on the verge of the launching of independent labor-political action, much in the style of Western European political fashions. It could be what the intellectuals just love to call "a new beginning." A national labor party.

If such whispers from labor's second echelon leadership haven't wafted through Geroge Meany's national headquarters, it's only because those around him keep the doors tightly shut.

Fact is, despite the outpouring of hundreds of millions of political dollars in the past three decades, the established, 90-year-old AFL (and CIO) suddenly has lost its political clout at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue. From the Hill, it's all downhill for labor's leaders and lobbyists.

In other words, the venerated ones in what Carl Sandburg revelled in calling the House of Labor aren't getting much for their money, manpower and maneuvering. Suddenly they are strangers in an old familiar milieu.

Some of the topside AFL-CIO leaders have been "generationed" into startling and surprising political impotence. And there's a new breed inside labor -- ranging from men in their early 30s even to their early 60s -- which has begun to articulate its unhappiness and frustration in voices which can be heard through closed doors in the command suite.

In the labor movement there's the depressing realization that the Congress is made up of Democratic party strangers who were backed for philosophical, emotional and ideological impulses -- merely to beat the Republicans. Sort of a black-hat-white-hat gut reaction.

Thus there sprang into being an American parliament with half of its members under 40 years of age. And about half have only six years of seniority. One lad, from Long Island, N.Y., was elected as a liberal Democrat in 1974 at the age of 25.

Many committee heads who would take a call from the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE) director Al Barkan quicker than they'd grab for a free Scotch have lost their chairmanships or have been stripped of their power. New staff men have been rushed in. Subcommittee chairmen, each with a special young counsel attached, couldn't care less if Barkan never called.

All of which motivated one influential union chief to say, "They don't give a damn about labor because they really don't know who we are and care less."

In a make-or-break counterthrust the massive union federation is launching its spring offensive. This will be the hardest, most intensely fought legislative drive for the strongest pro-labor laws since Franklin Roosevelt invented the fireside chat, sans sweater.

Actually the complex labor objectives can be synthesized down to the following: take the clamps out of the Hatch Act so some 2.6 million federal employes, including the militant postal workers, can swing into political action now forbidden them.

Hurtle H.R. 77, the "labor law reform" bill, through the Congress like Gen. Patton pushed through Nazi lines. This bill, if law, would enable a union to claim certification at a plant simply by getting 55 per cent of the work force to sign union pledge cards. Thus a National Labor Relations Broad (NLRB) "union-no union" election wouldn't be necessary. Also the bill would give power over unfair labor practies to administrative law judges -- without a decision of the NLRB itself.

If this, with other complex clauses built in, becomes law, the sunbelt would be snapped by invading armies of labor organizers.

There is, of course, labor's drive for a $3-an-hour minimum wage instead of the current $2.30.

Since the labor forces couldn't take the congressional Hill on their own and lost the common situs fight, the "new breed," or rather the restless, dissatisfied second and third echelon labor leadership, is turning to coalition warfare.

The position room is the headquarters of the new Task Force on Labor Law Reform. Directing it is "young" 33-year-old Vic Kamber, former assistant to Bob Georgine, leader of some 4.1 million building and construction union workers.

Though Kamber, working with an $870,000 operations fund, isn't talking much about "the old guard" around labor chief Meany, others say that he gets "knocked down" regularly for his new strategy by the veterans.

But coalition it is -- with some 140 groups claiming a membership of 40 million; with Eleanore Smeal, brand new president of the National Organization of Women; with female town crier and writer, Gloria Steinem; with Audrey Colom, "the chair" of the National Women's Political Caucus; with 30 groups specifically interested in smashing the Hatch Act; with 15 youth organizations ranging from many YMCA units to the American Zionist Youth.

Never has there been so broad an alliance. Not in generations have they all lobbied so arduously for laws of special interest to the "labor movement."

They can fail only if the new Democratic congressional generation tells the labor leaders to jump into the Potomac.

At that point, many labor chiefs would go public -- demand independent political action; create their own regional labor parties in an attempt to elect their own labor men as do the European workers' federations.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Plane Facts About Carpentry At the Supreme Court Level

by Jack Anderson
and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- Inside the Corinthian temple that houses the nation's highest court, the nine black-robed men behind the great mahogany bench are Olympian. Yet they are as vulnerable to petty larceny, apparently, as the lesser mortals who inhabit Washington.

The taxpayers provide the Supreme Court, for example, with a carpentry shop to repair the judicial furniture and maintain the woodwork. Some distinguished Justices are not above using the court carpenters, however, to handle their personal woodwork.

Under the direction of chief carpenter Edward F. Douglas, the official woodworkers have used the taxpayers' lumber and facilities to construct and repair furniture for the jurists. No less than white-maned Chief Justice Warren Burger himself has used the carpentry shop to make picture frames for his wife and her friends.

Taken separately, the carpentry work done for individual Justices perhaps has been trivial. But there was an almighty uproar in Washington over a set of valances that FBI carpenters built for FBI chief Clarence Kelley. Supreme Court Justices presumably should be as pure as FBI directors.

We have been given several examples of the misuse of the court carpenters. Here are just a few cases that we have been able to confirm from independent witnesses:

— The carpentry shop personnel built a coffee table for Justice Harry Blackmun's wife. She purchased the mosaic topping, however, with her own money.

— When Justice William Brennan installed wall-to-wall carpeting in his home, he found that his doors were too long. Chief carpenter Douglas and a helper obligingly shortened the doors for him.

— The shop has built home bookcases for most of the Justices, ostensibly to hold their law books, thus giving this particular home carpentry quasi-official status.

— Before Justice William O. Douglas retired, court carpenters were sent to his home to cut down cabinets and fix some molding. — The chief carpenters constructed frames and mats for the personal pictures of the Chief Justice, his wife and friends. Later, carpenter Douglas wanted his son David to work for him in the carpentry shop. This sort of nepotism is forbidden by Civil Service regulations. Both Supreme Court Marshal Alfred Wong and personnel chief James Powers, therefore, refused to permit it. So Edward Douglas appealed to Chief Justice Burger who overruled the objections. Young David Douglas was quietly hired in violation of the Civil Service rules.

— What Edward Douglas has done for others he has also done for himself. Helping himself to the taxpayers' lumber, he has built a shelter and pier at his vacation place in Colonial Beach, Va.

We tried to discuss the carpentry scandal with the people whom our sources implicated. But if there's one thing the Supreme Court has learned from Watergate, it's how to stonewall.

We contacted the offices of everyone mentioned in our story. They either failed to return our calls or referred us to the court's public information officer, Barrett McGurn. He would say only that Edward Douglas had been a faithful employee of the court for 16 years, that his son David is on the payroll and that our charges are under study.

Then, with the finality of a Supreme Court ruling, McGurn refused further comment and wouldn't let us speak to anyone else.

Footnote: Our reporter Jonathan Bernstein, nevertheless, reached Edward Douglas at his home. The chief carpenter said he had spent his own time and used his own materials when he did work for the Justices. This is disputed, however, by other witnesses. He admitted that he had taken some timbers -- "good for nothing but firewood," he said -- from the court for his personal pier. He denied all the other charges and refused to comment about his son's employment.

Washington Whirl: It looks as if President Carter is welshing on another campaign promise. He got the endorsement of the National Education Association last year by promising to form a separate Dept. of Education. This would have to be carved out of the present Health, Education and Welfare Dept., and HEW Secretary Joseph Califano doesn't want his empire broken up. He appears to have the ear of the president on this subject.

— The census taker who knocks at your door in 1980 may be your friendly neighborhood postman. Every 10 years, 150,000 census takers swarm across America to make an official count of the population. But Rep. Tom Steed, D.- Okla., has spoken quietly to budget boss Bert Lance about letting the postmen conduct the census in 1980. Lance likes the idea.

— Storage space is so short at the White House, we heard, that there was a filing cabinet in the first-floor ladies' room. We sent our reporter, Gilda LePatner, to check it out. She found a refrigerator that looks like a filing cabinet.

— Asst. Atty. Gen. Barbara Babcock has written a 15-page memo outlining her goals for equal employment. The memo notes that her division hired only blacks or Chicanos as interns. This has generated whispers of "reverse discrimination" inside the Justice Dept. "I think you have to make a special effort," she told us, to bring minorities into the government.

— President Carter is promoting not only human rights but human life overseas. In the past, the Agency for International Development has sent huge shipments of poisonous pesticides to undeveloped nations. Many poor farmers became ill or died from misuse of the powerful chemicals. Hereafter, AID will train uneducated farmers how to handle pesticides before distributing them.

— The Central Intelligence Agency, with characteristic mystery, has listed its chief in the Congressional Directory under two different spellings. On page 474, his name is spelled Stansfield Turner. In the index, his first name is spelled "Stanfield" without the second "s." The index -- sshh! -- is wrong.

DETROIT — SO FAR, SO GOOD

Some decades after the deterioration of the nation's central cities became a matter of universal concern, the verdict is still out on the question of whether any combination of public andprivate efforts can reverse the trend.

The single most ambitious urban renewal project so far is Detroit's Renaissance Center, the $337-million privately financed brainchild of Henry Ford II and other civic- minded business leaders.

The soaring complex, consisting of four 34-story office towers surrounding a central 73-story hotel — a third again as big as New York's Rockefeller Center — recently opened for business. If early figures on the extent of that business are as indicative of the future as is the architecture of Renaissance Center itself, it may well live up to its optimistic name.

Both retail space occupancy, at 58 per cent, and office occupancy, at 75 per cent, are well above projections. Occupancy of the 1,400-room hotel, the Detroit Plaza, has been running at 70 per cent. More importantly, some 416 major conventions have been booked by the hotel through 1981, conventions which will b ring in tens of millions of dollars.

But while some of this money will spill over into the rest of the downtown area, skeptics note that the flight of businesses out of the city continues, including one of Detroit's two major department stores,which will close its downtown building this summer.

And while Renaissance Center is generally acclaimed as an architectural triumph, critics contend that its design and location on the Detroit River, separated from downtown by a 10- lane highway, make it too aloof and fortresslike.

In short, while the economic success of Renaissance Center itself looks assured, the same cannot yet be said of the city whose rebirth it was intended to inspire and lead.

It should be noted, however, that nearly $450 million in major construction projects in addition to Renaissance Center were underway in Detroit in 1976.

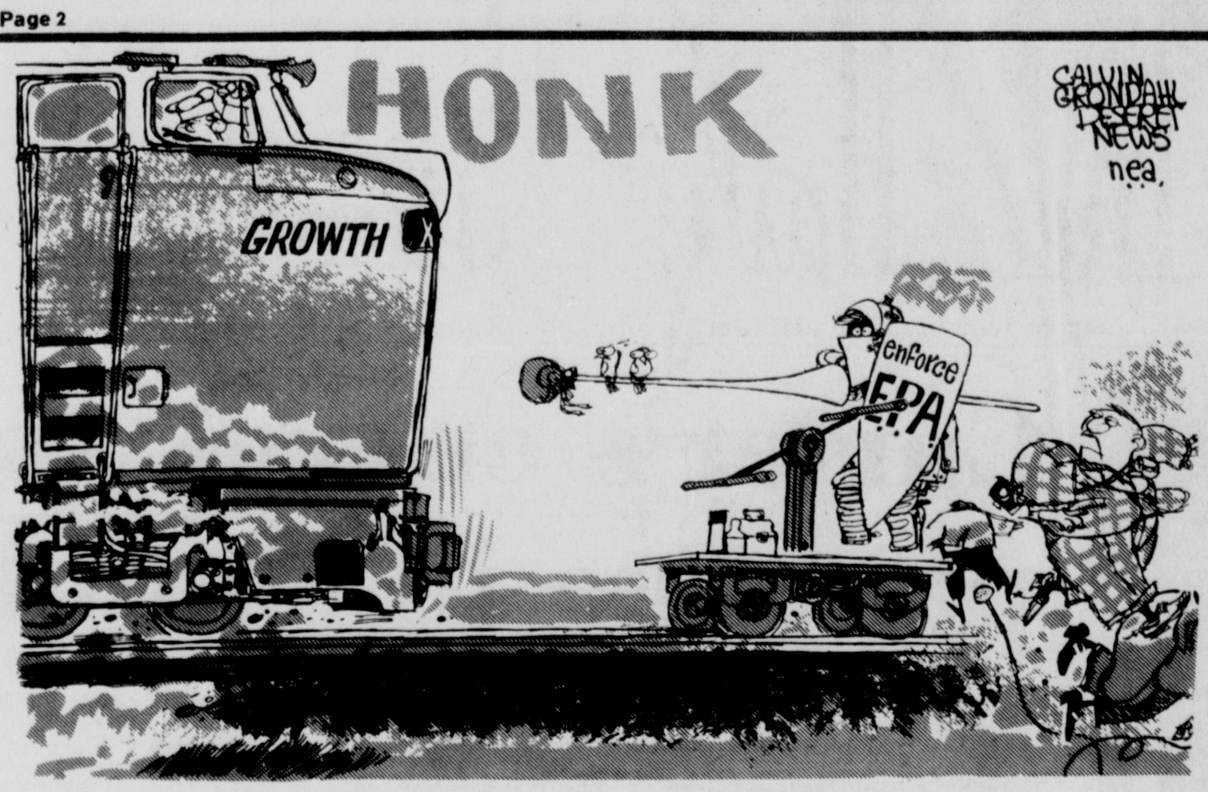

Again, it is much too early to render a verdict. Renaissance Center is, after all, meant to be but the beginning of and catalyst for an on-going process of revitalizing the nation's fifth largest city. And what a dramatic beginning it is.

It is doubtful that the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision upholding the right of the Philadelphia public school system to maintain one all-girls' school and one all-boys' school will end the controversy about the legality, the propriety or the desirability of single-sex schools and colleges.

There are more than 100 all-female colleges, a few all-male colleges, and no one really knows how many all-girls' and all-boys' elementary and secondary schools. Most are private schools or colleges; a handful are tax-supported.

It is obvious that the majority of Americans prefer coed schools and colleges. The question is, should we permit the majority to stamp out the rights of the minority who freely choose to attend single-sex schools? Should we brand the single-sex school and college as an anachronism not relevant to modern needs? Or as an embarrassing evidence of a sexist society?

Since Brown v. Board of Education proclaimed in 1954 that "separate but equal(is) inherently unequal" in regard to race, segregation by race has been prohibited in all educational institutions. Must this same rule be applied to sex? Should segregation by sex come within the definition of the offense labeled sex discrimination.

Those who are trying to build what they call a "gender-free society," and who look upon a revamping of our eduational system as the principal vehicle of achieving that goal, would answer yes.

Congress answered no when it passed Title IX of the Education Amendments in 1972. After a hot debate on this issue, Congress opted for diversity in education rather than conformity.

The ardent advocates of a total mandate against all sex discrimination or segregation fought hard against this decision. The sponsor of Title IX, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., made it clear in Senate debate that he considered the exemption of single-sex schools and colleges only a practical and temporary expedient to secure passage of Title IX.

Bayh's Senate speech included such grudging remarks as "admissions policies ... are temporarily exempted until further study can be made as to the feasibility of requiring that all admissions policies be sex neutral," and "these exemptions will not be supportable after further study and discussion."

Actually, when Congress and the Supreme Court separately concluded that the law should not interfere with the freedom of choice to attend single-sex schools or colleges, they showed a proper respect for the national consensus already becoming evident.

A decade ago, the elimination of single-sex schools and colleges appeared to be the wave of the future. Many of the most prestigious colleges succumbed to the coed movement, including Yale,Princeton, Dartmouth and Vassar.

But the reports of the death of the single-sex college were, to borrow Mark Twain's famous phrase, "greatly exaggerated." Many single-sex colleges not only have resisted the trend but have rediscovered their own identity.

The president of Mount Holyoke College, for example, states: "Coeducation is neither an inevitable nor better status. It would be a disaster for this country if every institution were coeducational, because it would be one more step toward destroying the diversity which is essential to educational strength and therefore toward reducing the entire enterprise to a dead mediocrity."

The president of Smith College argues that women's colleges "tend to take women's intellectual abilities and aspirations more seriously than other institutions."

Women's colleges enthusiastically circulate what is known as the Tidball Study which provides evidence that high achievers among females tend to be graduates of women's colleges. The distinguished achievement record of single-sex schools and colleges clearly proves that sex segregation is not the same offense as race segregation.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Inside Analysis:
..Some top union chiefs begin talking of a New National Labor Party

WASHINGTON— This nation is on the verge of the launching of independent labor-political action, much in the style of Western European political fashions. It could be what the intellectuals just love to call "a new beginning." A national labor party.

If such whispers from labor's second echelon leadership haven't wafted through Geroge Meany's national headquarters, it's only because those around him keep the doors tightly shut.

Fact is, despite the outpouring of hundreds of millions of political dollars in the past three decades, the established, 90-year-old AFL (and CIO) suddenly has lost its political clout at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue. From the Hill, it's all downhill for labor's leaders and lobbyists.

In other words, the venerated ones in what Carl Sandburg revelled in calling the House of Labor aren't getting much for their money, manpower and maneuvering. Suddenly they are strangers in an old familiar milieu.

Some of the topside AFL-CIO leaders have been "generationed" into startling and surprising political impotence. And there's a new breed inside labor -- ranging from men in their early 30s even to their early 60s -- which has begun to articulate its unhappiness and frustration in voices which can be heard through closed doors in the command suite.

In the labor movement there's the depressing realization that the Congress is made up of Democratic party strangers who were backed for philosophical, emotional and ideological impulses -- merely to beat the Republicans. Sort of a black-hat-white-hat gut reaction.

Thus there sprang into being an American parliament with half of its members under 40 years of age. And about half have only six years of seniority. One lad, from Long Island, N.Y., was elected as a liberal Democrat in 1974 at the age of 25.

Many committee heads who would take a call from the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE) director Al Barkan quicker than they'd grab for a free Scotch have lost their chairmanships or have been stripped of their power. New staff men have been rushed in. Subcommittee chairmen, each with a special young counsel attached, couldn't care less if Barkan never called.

All of which motivated one influential union chief to say, "They don't give a damn about labor because they really don't know who we are and care less."

In a make-or-break counterthrust the massive union federation is launching its spring offensive. This will be the hardest, most intensely fought legislative drive for the strongest pro-labor laws since Franklin Roosevelt invented the fireside chat, sans sweater.

Actually the complex labor objectives can be synthesized down to the following: take the clamps out of the Hatch Act so some 2.6 million federal employes, including the militant postal workers, can swing into political action now forbidden them.

Hurtle H.R. 77, the "labor law reform" bill, through the Congress like Gen. Patton pushed through Nazi lines. This bill, if law, would enable a union to claim certification at a plant simply by getting 55 per cent of the work force to sign union pledge cards. Thus a National Labor Relations Broad (NLRB) "union-no union" election wouldn't be necessary. Also the bill would give power over unfair labor practies to administrative law judges -- without a decision of the NLRB itself.

If this, with other complex clauses built in, becomes law, the sunbelt would be snapped by invading armies of labor organizers.

There is, of course, labor's drive for a $3-an-hour minimum wage instead of the current $2.30.

Since the labor forces couldn't take the congressional Hill on their own and lost the common situs fight, the "new breed," or rather the restless, dissatisfied second and third echelon labor leadership, is turning to coalition warfare.

The position room is the headquarters of the new Task Force on Labor Law Reform. Directing it is "young" 33-year-old Vic Kamber, former assistant to Bob Georgine, leader of some 4.1 million building and construction union workers.

Though Kamber, working with an $870,000 operations fund, isn't talking much about "the old guard" around labor chief Meany, others say that he gets "knocked down" regularly for his new strategy by the veterans.

But coalition it is -- with some 140 groups claiming a membership of 40 million; with Eleanore Smeal, brand new president of the National Organization of Women; with female town crier and writer, Gloria Steinem; with Audrey Colom, "the chair" of the National Women's Political Caucus; with 30 groups specifically interested in smashing the Hatch Act; with 15 youth organizations ranging from many YMCA units to the American Zionist Youth.

Never has there been so broad an alliance. Not in generations have they all lobbied so arduously for laws of special interest to the "labor movement."

They can fail only if the new Democratic congressional generation tells the labor leaders to jump into the Potomac.

At that point, many labor chiefs would go public -- demand independent political action; create their own regional labor parties in an attempt to elect their own labor men as do the European workers' federations.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Plane Facts About Carpentry At the Supreme Court Level

by Jack Anderson
and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- Inside the Corinthian temple that houses the nation's highest court, the nine black-robed men behind the great mahogany bench are Olympian. Yet they are as vulnerable to petty larceny, apparently, as the lesser mortals who inhabit Washington.

The taxpayers provide the Supreme Court, for example, with a carpentry shop to repair the judicial furniture and maintain the woodwork. Some distinguished Justices are not above using the court carpenters, however, to handle their personal woodwork.

Under the direction of chief carpenter Edward F. Douglas, the official woodworkers have used the taxpayers' lumber and facilities to construct and repair furniture for the jurists. No less than white-maned Chief Justice Warren Burger himself has used the carpentry shop to make picture frames for his wife and her friends.

Taken separately, the carpentry work done for individual Justices perhaps has been trivial. But there was an almighty uproar in Washington over a set of valances that FBI carpenters built for FBI chief Clarence Kelley. Supreme Court Justices presumably should be as pure as FBI directors.

We have been given several examples of the misuse of the court carpenters. Here are just a few cases that we have been able to confirm from independent witnesses:

-- The carpentry shop personnel built a coffee table for Justice Harry Blackmun's wife. She purchased the mosaic topping, however, with her own money.

-- When Justice William Brennan installed wall-to-wall carpeting in his home, he found that his doors were too long. Chief carpenter Douglas and a helper obligingly shortened the doors for him.

-- The shop has built home bookcases for most of the Justices, ostensibly to hold their law books, thus giving this particular home carpentry quasi-official status.

-- Before Justice William O. Douglas retired, court carpenters were sent to his home to cut down cabinets and fix some molding. -- The chief carpenters constructed frames and mats for the personal pictures of the Chief Justice, his wife and friends. Later, carpenter Douglas wanted his son David to work for him in the carpentry shop. This sort of nepotism is forbidden by Civil Service regulations. Both Supreme Court Marshal Alfred Wong and personnel chief James Powers, therefore, refused to permit it. So Edward Douglas appealed to Chief Justice Burger who overruled the objections. Young David Douglas was quietly hired in violation of the Civil Service rules.

-- What Edward Douglas has done for others he has also done for himself. Helping himself to the taxpayers' lumber, he has built a shelter and pier at his vacation place in Colonial Beach, Va.

We tried to discuss the carpentry scandal with the people whom our sources implicated. But if there's one thing the Supreme Court has learned from Watergate, it's how to stonewall.

We contacted the offices of everyone mentioned in our story. They either failed to return our calls or referred us to the court's public information officer, Barrett McGurn. He would say only that Edward Douglas had been a faithful employee of the court for 16 years, that his son David is on the payroll and that our charges are under study.

Then, with the finality of a Supreme Court ruling, McGurn refused further comment and wouldn't let us speak to anyone else.

Footnote: Our reporter Jonathan Bernstein, nevertheless, reached Edward Douglas at his home. The chief carpenter said he had spent his own time and used his own materials when he did work for the Justices. This is disputed, however, by other witnesses. He admitted that he had taken some timbers -- "good for nothing but firewood," he said -- from the court for his personal pier. He denied all the other charges and refused to comment about his son's employment.

Washington Whirl: It looks as if President Carter is welshing on another campaign promise. He got the endorsement of the National Education Association last year by promising to form a separate Dept. of Education. This would have to be carved out of the present Health, Education and Welfare Dept., and HEW Secretary Joseph Califano doesn't want his empire broken up. He appears to have the ear of the president on this subject.

-- The census taker who knocks at your door in 1980 may be your friendly neighborhood postman. Every 10 years, 150,000 census takers swarm across America to make an official count of the population. But Rep. Tom Steed, D.- Okla., has spoken quietly to budget boss Bert Lance about letting the postmen conduct the census in 1980. Lance likes the idea.

-- Storage space is so short at the White House, we heard, that there was a filing cabinet in the first-floor ladies' room. We sent our reporter, Gilda LePatner, to check it out. She found a refrigerator that looks like a filing cabinet.

-- Asst. Atty. Gen. Barbara Babcock has written a 15-page memo outlining her goals for equal employment. The memo notes that her division hired only blacks or Chicanos as interns. This has generated whispers of "reverse discrimination" inside the Justice Dept. "I think you have to make a special effort," she told us, to bring minorities into the government.

-- President Carter is promoting not only human rights but human life overseas. In the past, the Agency for International Development has sent huge shipments of poisonous pesticides to undeveloped nations. Many poor farmers became ill or died from misuse of the powerful chemicals. Hereafter, AID will train uneducated farmers how to handle pesticides before distributing them.

-- The Central Intelligence Agency, with characteristic mystery, has listed its chief in the Congressional Directory under two different spellings. On page 474, his name is spelled Stansfield Turner. In the index, his first name is spelled "Stanfield" without the second "s." The index -- sshh! -- is wrong.

Today's news in brief

B1 critics remain hopeful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two critics of the much-debated B1 bomber project emerged from a meeting today with President Carter to say they feel he is definitely leaning toward at least limited production of the costly airplane.

Rep. Robert Drinan, D+Mass., told reporters that Carter made a cryptic reference to "secret information that he had not had before," which Drinan said he interpreted as an indication the President is preparing to make a case in behalf of the B1.

Rep. Ronald Dellums, D+Calif., agreed that Carter seemed likely to support at least part of the Air Force request for a $26 billion fleet of 244 B1s.

However, Sen. John Culver, D+Iowa, told reporters, "I don't think there's any way to tell which way he (Carter) is leaning."

Energy hearing dates set

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The schedule for public hearings on the state Energy Conservation Plan was announced today by Gov. Joseph Teasdale.

The three-year plan was recently completed and is designed to reduce energy use in the state by more than eight per cent in 1980.

"The success of the plan and any energy program depends on citizen involement," Teasdale said. "Specific proposals in the plan may be modified as a result of the hearings or other progrms may be added."

The energy plan is designed to help homeowners and businessmen hold down their utility and energy costs. It includes programs to promote energy efficiency standards for new construction, industrial energy conservation, transportation ride-sharing, design of existing residential and commercial buiLdings for better energy efficiency and utility involvement in energy conservation.

The hearings will be conducted by the Department of Natural Resources and are scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon on the following dates: June 24 in Springfield, June 27 in Kansas City, and July 7 in Clayton.

Summaries of the energy plan can be obtained by writing to the DNR in Jefferson City.

Reagan steps up criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan, who never got a chance to run against Jimmy Carter, is campaigning against him now and is emerging as the sharpest Republican critic of the Democratic administration.

In speeches Thursday in New York and Washington, Reagan attacked Carter's policies at home and abroad and accused him of violating his campaign promise to restore confidence in government.

At a $100-a-plate fundraiser here for conservative causes, Reagan said Carter promised during the 1976 campaign that he would "never become part of this city's buddy system."

But Reagan, who also campaigned on an anti+Washington theme in his unsuccessful run for the GOP nomination, said Carter has "managed to adapt rather well to this city that has become his home."

"He's been in office now for nearly six months and in that time has managed to assemble the largest and highest paid White House staff in history," Reagan said.

"It strikes me as unusual that a man who was going to restore our faith in Washington would, as one of his first acts, propose to change the election laws so that congressional incumbents will be able to tap the federal till for their campaign funds," Reagan said.

No safety violations found

FORT MITCHELL, Ky. (AP) — The most recent inspection at the Beverly Hills Supper Club, where at least 161 persons died in a Memorial Day weekend fire, showed no fire safety violations. But officials can't explain a four-year gap in the inspection records. State Police Commissioner Kenneth Brandenburgh said he would conclude his investigation at the club near Southgate today and issue a statement dealing with the fire's "origin, source and cause."

Bluff men held in drug case

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Two Poplar Bluff men were in custody Thursday night in the Boone County Jail after being arraigned on charges of drug possession.

James Shamroe, 25, and Brad Franklin, 23, are each charged with three counts of possession of a controlled substance — one count each for possession of marijuana, LSD and cocaine.

The two were arrested Wednesday when police raided Shamroe's Columbia apartment on a St. Louis warrant for possession of a controlled substance.

Shamroe and Franklin were being held in lieu of $3,000 bond.

Gulf wants cartel kept secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Gulf Oil Corp. is trying to persuade House investigators to keep secret a nine-inch stack of documents allegedly proving the firm was at the center of an international cartel conspiring to boost uranium prices. A company which makes nuclear power plants says that price-fixing activities of the alleged cartel helped drive the cost of uranium from $6 or $7 a pound in 1972 to $41 a pound. A House subcommittee is holding a hearing today on Gulf's request that the documents be kept secret.

Job promise not filled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Carter's promises to place women and minorities in high-level positions throughout the government, 76 per cent of the top 265 jobs in the Carter administration are filled by white males. A spokeswoman for the National Women's Political Caucus says Carter has not lived up to his promises.

Terrorists' position unchanged

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Mediators apparently failed to budge the South Moluccan terrorists holding 55 hostages in northern Holland for 19 days. The Dutch government said the situation was "still serious." Premier Joop den Uyl and his cabinet met for five hours Thursday night after mediators Josina Soumokil and Hassan Tan paid their second visit to the besieged train where 51 hostages are held.

Amin threatens execution

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — President Idi Amin is threatening to execute another British resident of Uganda, continuing his war of nerves against the British government. Radio Uganda said the Briton, who was not identified, had been arrested for spying and "will be executed by a firing squad" if found guilty by a military tribunal.

Dear Ann Landers

Wife provokes beatings by husband

Dear Ann Landers: Re your recent column in the Dallas Times Herald:

When did I stop beating my wife? It was when I realized she provoked me because she wanted to suffer. Slapping her around seemed to satisfy her temporarily, but it wasn't a permanent solution.

In answer to L.T.L.'s recommendation that "a bit of battering can be a good thing," don't be suckered into it. Some women drive a man up the wall because they know they'll get hit. Then they can feel sorry for themselves and make HIM look bad. I know all about this sort of thing— first-hand. I'm signing myself— H.I.N.O. (Husband In Name Only)

Dear Husband: Sounds like a gorgeous marriage you two have. as my grandmother used to say— there's somebody for everybody.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I enjoy a wide range of friends— some social, some business. The diversity adds spice to our lives and to theirs.More than a few are plenty overweight.

Surprisingly, many of them have one thing in common-- the ability or unconscious desire to embarrass a slim person while eating at a restaurant or at a home.

My doctor tells me I'm in excellent health— also my weight and food selection is good. Yet I am subject to to the following comments:

1. How do you stay so thin?
2. Is that all you eat? No wonder you're skinny. You don't eat anything!
3. Oh, you MUST try some of my dish, it is so delicious!
4. Don't tell me that's all you WANT to eat. Why are you afraid of gaining a pound?

To turn the tables would be rude. Here are some examples:

1. How DO you stay so fat?
2. No wonder you're overweight, just look at how much you eat!
3. I chose this dish from the menu because I like it. Keep your own food.
4. Go ahead and eat the third helping. I see you don't watch your weight.

Please tell me how to handle this. I am almost always coerced into eating more than I want, with the resulting discomfort. Gratefully— Slim, Slandered And Sometimes Stuffed!

Dear S.S. and S.S.: God gave you two ears for just such occasions as the ones you describe. Let the little barbs go in one and out the other, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: How can I teach my children— eight, six and five years of age— good table manners when their grandfather eats like an animal?

Grampa came to live with us two years ago after he had a slight stroke. He spills things on the tablecloth, himself and others. When he has soup you can hear him in the next room— slurping away.

Last night our six-year-old began slurping his soup. When I corrected him he said, "Grampa does it." What can I do?— A Mother

Dear M: You can put your nose back in joint and get your priorities straight. Respect for elders is more important than perfect table manners. The old gentleman's stroke undoubtedly has something to do with the way he eats.

Tell the kids Grampa is doing the best HE can and they should do the best they can.

Teaching your kids about the facts of life can be easy or awkward. Ann Landers's new booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex" can spell the difference. Send 50 cents in coin, along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request, to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Senior Girl Scouts are touring Washington

The Cotton Boll Council Senior Girl Scouts are once again heading eastward for the Washington D.C. trip. The trip is sponsored every three years for any Senior Scout in the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council.

This year 42 Senior Scouts, under the direction of Mrs. Les Heize, of Malden, tour director and Mrs. Darrell Alcorn, of Sikeston, tour guide, departed Wednesday from the Hickory House Restaurant in Dexter and Holiday Inn in Sikeston for 10 fun filled days of learning, seeing new sights and reliving part of our historic past. The scouts will return home on June 17th.

During the ten day trip the scouts will see Kentucky Lake Dam; visit Lincoln's Birthplace and have an opportunity to tour some of the Horse Farms that Kentucky is so famous for. The time spent in West Virginia will afford the scouts the opportunity to see some of the most beautiful scenery in the United States as well as poverty at its worst as they tour by bus through the coal- mining towns of the Appalachian Mountains.

Washington D.C. has so much to see and the four days that the scouts will be in the Nation's Capitol promise to be busy ones. Some of the points they will visit include: the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials; the Archives; a tour of the White House; the Capitol; House of Representatives and the United States Senate. While in Washington the Scouts will stay at Rockwood, which is the National Girl Scout Camp located just outside Washington D.C..

The Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council feels that this type of trip is rewarding not only in terms of seeing other areas of the country, but also it allows scouts to meet scouts from all over the Cotton Boll Council..

Home freezing is quick way to preserve fruits, vegetables

If your gardening this summer is so successful that you have fruits and vegetables practically coming out of your ears, or if there is a pick-it-yourself place nearby, you're in luck. You'll have enough to freeze some of the crop so you can enjoy it year round.

Freezing is quick and easy. It keeps the natural color, fresh flavor and nutritive value of most fruits and vegetables. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has a booklet with tips on choosing ingredients and equipment, preparation, packaging, freezing and suggestions for use. For a copy of Home Freezing of Fruits and Vegetables, send 75 cents to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 123, E, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Here's a peak at what's inside:

To keep your foods well frozen, usepackaging that will prevent evaporation. Materials that are moisture- vapor- proof include glass, metal, and rigid plastic. Most bags, wrapping material and waxed cartons made especially for freezing are moisture- vapor resistant.

All containers should be easy to seal. Also, be sure to choose packaging that won't be brittle at low temperatures.

Freeze fruits and vegetables soon after they are packaged. Be sure to put no more unfrozen food into a home freezer than it will freeze within 24 hours. Usually this will be about 2 or 3 pounds of food to each cubic foot of its capacity. Overloading slows down the rate of freezing, and foods that freeze too slowly may lose quality or spoil. Some things don't freeze well: for instance green onions, lettuce and other salad greens, radishes, and tomatoes (except as juice or cooked).

Home Freezing of Fruits and Vegetables (75 cents) is one of over 200 selected Federal consumer publications listed in the current edition of the catalog, Consumer Information. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the Catalog is available free from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

REMINDER: There is a charge of 75 cents to your readers for Home Freezing of Fruits and Vegetables.

Please tell me how to handle this. I am almost always coerced into eating more than I want, with the resulting discomfort. Gratefully— Slim, Slandered And Sometimes Stuffed!

Dear S.S. and S.S.: God gave you two ears for just such occasions as the ones you describe. Let the little barbs go in one and out the other, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: How can I teach my children— eight, six and five years of age— good table manners when their grandfather eats like an animal?

Grampa came to live with us two years ago after he had a slight stroke. He spills things on the tablecloth, himself and others. When he has soup you can hear him in the next room— slurping away.

Last night our six-year-old began slurping his soup. When I corrected him he said, "Grampa does it." What can I do?— A Mother

Dear M: You can put your nose back in joint and get your priorities straight. Respect for elders is more important than perfect table manners. The old gentleman's stroke undoubtedly has something to do with the way he eats.

Tell the kids Grampa is doing the best HE can and they should do the best they can.

Teaching your kids about the facts of life can be easy or awkward. Ann Landers's new booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex" can spell the difference. Send 50 cents in coin, along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request, to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Senior Girl Scouts are touring Washington

The Cotton Boll Council Senior Girl Scouts are once again heading eastward for the Washington D.C. trip. The trip is sponsored every three years for any Senior Scout in the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council.

This year 42 Senior Scouts, under the direction of Mrs. Les Heize, of Malden, tour director and Mrs. Darrell Alcorn, of Sikeston, tour guide, departed Wednesday from the Hickory House Restaurant in Dexter and Holiday Inn in Sikeston for 10 fun filled days of learning, seeing new sights and reliving part of our historic past. The scouts will return home on June 17th.

During the ten day trip the scouts will see Kentucky Lake Dam; visit Lincoln's Birthplace and have an opportunity to tour some of the Horse Farms that Kentucky is so famous for. The time spent in West Virginia will afford the scouts the opportunity to see some of the most beautiful scenery in the United States as well as poverty at its worst as they tour by bus through the coal- mining towns of the Appalachian Mountains.

Washington D.C. has so much to see and the four days that the scouts will be in the Nation's Capitol promise to be busy ones. Some of the points they will visit include: the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials; the Archives; a tour of the White House; the Capitol; House of Representatives and the United States Senate. While in Washington the Scouts will stay at Rockwood, which is the National Girl Scout Camp located just outside Washington D.C..

The Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council feels that this type of trip is rewarding not only in terms of seeing other areas of the country, but also it allows scouts to meet scouts from all over the Cotton Boll Council..

Lasorda praises Cardinal hitters

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Manager Vern Rapp says he's satisfied with his team's offense and Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda has no trouble seeing why.

"He scouted them and said they were a real good hitting team and they showed it tonight," said Lasorda after the Cardinals shelled his Dodgers 6-3 Thursday night.

Lasorda's reference was to advance scout Jerry Stephenson, who sat nearby in the Los Angeles manager's clubhouse office while commiserating with Rick Rhoden, 8-3, the losing pitcher.

"I thought I was throwing the ball pretty good. They just got the hits," lamented Rhoden, the chief victim of a 13-hit St. Louis assault.

The 6-foot-3 Rhoden, while thwarted in his bid to become the National League's first nine-game winner, issued a walk that led to a Cards run in the second inning.

Then a double by winning pitcher Bob Forsch, 8-2, in tandem with Jerry Mumphrey's triple and Garry Templeton's sacrifice fly stretched the St. Louis lead to 3-0 in the third.

Rhoden escaped further damage in the fourth when Mike Tyson grounded into a double play following Keith Hernandez' one-out double and a single by Ken Reitz.

But in the fifth the Cards' advantage increased to 5-0 and signaled the Dodger right-hander's departure when Forsch singled, Templeton doubled and Tony Scott delivered a two-base hit to score both.

Los Angeles' attack, meanwhile, was dormant until Davey Lopes singled to start the sixth, stole his second base of the night and eventually scored on a Forsch wild pitch.

Reitz pounded his eighth homer, marking a personal one-season career high, for St. Louis in the bottom of the sixth and a two-run blast by Los Angeles' Dusty Baker proved too little an inning later.

While Rapp labeled the Cards' hitting "consistent to this point," a contrasting viewpoint was expounded in the clubhouse of the losing club following the Dodgers' eighth loss in 12 games.

"We're just somewhat lethargic right now. We're not playing the way we can," maintained Reggie Smith, an-ex Cardinal. "There's something wrong. You can point your finger at a couple of things — like a lacking of kidding and joking. I think the guys are being too serious."

St. Louis' barrage, fortified by four doubles and two triples in addition to Reitz' homer, provided more than enough support for Forsch, who left in the seventh and let Al Hrabosky finish.

Rapp, in further endorsing the effectiveness of his team's lusty hitting, said, "I think it was evident in tonight's ball game.

"Almost anybody that comes up is a threat," he said. "We've had good production up and down the line-up. We're getting a lot of RBI out of each position."

Nine to challenge Slew in Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Someone at the draw for post positions for the 109th running of the Belmont Stakes wondered why Johnny Campo had bothered to enter two horses against unbeaten Seattle Slew.

But Campo was not in attendance, so Mickey Taylor, whose wife Karen is listed as Slew's owner, stepped in. "It's like Campo says, 'I know there's one horse I can't beat, but I can beat the rest.'"

A field of 10 3-year-olds was entered on Thursday for Saturday's third jewel of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown. If Seattle Slew can overcome that large field, he not only will be the first undefeated Triple Crown winner, he also will have overcome a larger field than any of his nine predecessors.

But Taylor does not believe the large field indicates there still are those who question the colt's ability. "They want to put up the money," he said "and it makes no difference to us how many enter. Iron Constitution, Run Dusty Run, Sanhedrin, they deserve to be in it. The rest have high hopes."

The Campo entry of Max Gluck's Make Amends and Hey Hey J.P., owned by Campo and his wife, likely will not make it to post (at about 5:38 p.m. EDT) intact, however. Campo is expected to scratch Hey Hey J.P. and run him in the Keystone Handicap on the same day as the Belmont, leaving nine in the field.

Regardless, Taylor is not worried about Seattle Slew's competition. "I don't worry about the other horses. I never have. Slew can gallop faster than most horses can run," he said. "And this is our playground this time. We're the home team."

Seattle Slew, the winner of his first eight starts — four of them in New York — including the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, under jockey Jean Cruguet, drew the No. 6 post position for the 1½-mile Belmont, which will be worth $183,800 if all 10 go. The winner would earn $110,280.

In order of post position, the Belmont entries were Golden Chance Farm's Run Dusty Run, Sandy Hawley; Harry T. Mangurian Jr.'s Iron Constitution, Angel Cordero Jr.; Hey Hey J.P., no boy; Make Amends, Ron Turcotte; La Luna Stable's Sir Sir, Gustavo Avila; Seattle Slew; Elaine Brodsky's Leading Scorer, no boy; Darby Dan Farm's Sanhedrin, Jorge Velasquez; John L. Greer's Mr. Red Wing, Jacinto Vasquez, and Meadow Stable's Spirit Level, Tony Graell. All will carry 126 pounds.

Beaudean & Lions spoil Legion's perfect record

Many coaches in the Sikeston Little League's National circuit were already looking forward to next Tuesday night as a battle between two undefeated teams for first place in the league.

But Marland Beaudean and the Lions took care of that Thursday night.

Beaudean tossed a no-hitter and smacked a grand slam in the fifth inning to boot as the Lions won a 14-2 laugher that handed the short- handed Legion squad its first loss of the season. For the second game in a row, Legion played with only eight players.

Pizza Inn, the other unbeaten club in the league, downed Lewis Furniture 12-2 in the other National League battle.

Collins Realty topped Fabick 17-7 and Moore's Firestone nipped Ziegenhorn 7-6 in the American League. Musial League play saw Collins Construction edge Malone and Hyde 13-12 and The Daily Standard beat the Bank of Sikeston 6-4.

Beaudean's homer for the Lions came with the sacks full in the fifth to end the game by the ten-run rule. Shawn Sain had tow hits for the winners, as did beaudean.

Chris Steward allowed only a pair of hits for Pizza Inn as they defeated Lewis Furniture. Brad Bloemer and Mike Moore had two hits each for the winners, whose pounded out eight hits in all. Pizza Innn scored tenin the first inning and were in control all the way.

Jamie Cowell drove in the winning run for Moore's Firestone as they rallied for six runs in the fifth inning to pull out a 7-6 win over Ziegenhorn Insurance. Ziegenhorn led 6-1 after four before Moore's began their comeback. Cowell had three hits in all to lead the winning effort. Moore's backed winning pitcher Scott Carmody with a nine-hit attack.

Collins Realty got three hits from Paul Hinson and eleven safeties in all as they ripped Fabick. Collins broke the game open in the fifth with a six-run outburst while making a winner out of Allen Morris. Shawn Williams had three hits for Fabick.

The Daily Standard scored twice in the first, second and fifth innings en route to their win over Bank of Sikeston. Anderson outpitched Bill Ruby of the Bank to earn the victory. Ruby and Scott Aufdenburg had a pair of safeties each for the losers, while Witt slapped two hits for the Standard.

Malone and Hyde rallied for three in the bottom of the fourth against Collins Construction, but their comeback fell one run short as Collins held on to win. M & H outhit Collins 7-4, with Brian Harper banging out three of the basehits. Brian Self had two hits for Collins.

Jamie Cowell drove in the winning run for Moore's Firestone as they rallied for six runs in the fifth inning to pull out a 7-6 win over Ziegenhorn Insurance. Ziegenhorn led 6-1 after four before Moore's began their comeback. Cowell had three hits in all to lead the winning effort. Moore's backed winning pitcher Scott Carmody with a nine-hit attack.

Malone and Hyde rallied for three in the bottom of the fourth against Collins Construction, but their comeback fell one run short as Collins held on to win. M & H outhit Collins 7-4, with Brian Harper banging out three of the basehits. Brian Self had two hits for Collins.

Saints avoid Bi-State basement with 6-2 win

PERRYVILLE — Things were in a bad way in Saint-land. Residing near the bottom of the heap in the Bi-State League standings, the Sikeston team traveled to Perryville desperately needing a win. In the classic example of a "total team effort," the squad backed starter Jeff Jackson to the hilt and the 6-3, 200-pounder responded with a solid three-hitter.

Jackson had received somewhat less then total support in his first outings and, with a thin relief corps, had been forced to endure a pair of thrashings after his best stuff left him. Given a semblance of defense behind him, the big hurler was overpowering with his fastball and at the same time baffling with his change-up curve, retiring the side three-up, three-down in seven of the nine innings. Bear in mind the opponents, Perryville, are in second place in the league standings.

"Jeff hasn't pitched poorly this year," noted a teammate. He had allowed the powerful Cape Capahas just twoearned runs through seven innings a week -and-a-half ago, then wilted in the sun at Anna Sunday after pitching four hitless innings.

The win for Jackson was his first as a Saint since the summer of '75, and the key to the win you will find in the pitching statistics under "base on ball." The Kelly grad went to a three- ball count only once and didn't walk a man.

The losing hurler, lefty Ron Heuring, scored both Perryville runs. He picked a high change-up inthe third and lofted a 350-foot homer to right- center. Leading off the ninth, Heuring's popup dropped and he scored on a sacrifice fly by Rob Cissell.

The Saints scored four runs in the fourth, to erase Perryville's 1-0 lead on the homer. Jim Saulter doubled off the leftfield fence and scored on David Shell's single to right. Shell and batter Dave McClarty worked the hit-and-run to perfection and, on the throw, McClarty took second. With one gone, Bruce Lawrence doubled over the centerfielder's head for a pair and Charlie Miller capped the rally with a run-scoring single. Miller ended the night with three-four four.

Ronnie Baker walked to start the fifth, and stole second. Shell again produced a run-producing safety and the Saint catcher later scampered home on a wild pitch.

The Saints return to V. F. W. Stadium for three games this weekend. Mitch Walker will start a 7:30 non-league game Saturday night against Leadwood. Sunday afternoon Mike Brasher and Ricky Taylor will start the twinbill against Herrin. That starts at 1 p.m.

The Saints league record is 2-4.

Second IN COMMAND

A tip of the cap goes to Cape Central's Bob Volkerding, who was drafted by the Philadelphia Phillies earlier this week in the Major League Free Agent Draft. All who know him swear by this talented young outfielder both as a performer and a person.

A left-handed swinger, Volkerding hit for a .429 average for Central this year. He had started since he was a sophomore.

The effort by Jeff Jackson against Perryville was an encouraging one for the Saints, to say the least. Shoddy defense and too many walks had hurt the team in the early going. The Saints would get behind by several runs early, due to errors and walks, and that took away the running game and most of the offensive strategy that can be employed. Jeff's re-discovery of the strike zone and the addition of several new faces to the pitching staff make a run at the league playoffs a very good possibility.

In the near future Mike Brasher should be recovered from his foot injury and Ricky Taylor, another quality pitcher, will join the team. Glen Alexander, the squad's best pitcher in the early going, got a new job that will interfere with his availability, but he will be able to help on a limited basis.

Much like the NBA and NFL, the highlight of the Bi-State year is the post-season playoffs and most teams point to them during the season. They arent awfully hard to qualify for, since the top four teams in a six-team league make it.

First-place would be an even longer shot. Like the L. A. Dodgers, the Caps seem to have too much pitching to expect them to fold and our team hasn't shown any ability to beatth hard-hitting Cape Girardeauans.

Speaking of the Caps, slighting remarks made by that team in the press after some lopsided victories lately hasn't exactly endeared them to the rest of the league. Comments about "lack of competition" and no "good opposition so far" have drawn the ire of many of the league coaches and most of the team's are pointing to the men with the loose lips, hoping to prove them wrong. There's little the Sikeston team can say to dispute theCapaha bragging, since the Saints didn't play well at all (as a matter of fact, they stunk) against Cape.

But, it's an old proverb in sports that you "let a sleeping dog lie," or something to that effect. It simply makes more sense.

However, I guess the best time to brag is when you're winning, and Cape does have a good team.

Just ask them.

Summertime brings a plethora of activity at the various Sikeston parks and the Standard sports page could accurately be labeled the "Standard box scores" page. Because of this, the columns are certainly spaced farther apart. We'll try to make sure of at least two -- one from the Sports Editor and myelf -- per week.

That would leave plenty of time for letters to Forum, about the Cardinals, our coverage of local sports, prospects for the Fall, etc Response to "How will the Cards do in 1977?" were sparse and non-committal.

I know so many people who have opinions about everything in sports and aren't shy about volunteering them. Does this mean those folks can't write?

Jaycees edge 66; Triangle rips KSIM

Fans who enjoy close, well-played games got what they wanted last night in the Minor Divisionof the Sikeston womens and Girls Softball Association. But then again, fans who like wide open games got to see what they wanted, too.

The Jaycees nipped Terry's 66 6-5 in the more exciting of the two Minor Division battles. Triangle clouted KSIM 21-1 in the other game.

The Jaycees scored a run in the bottom of the seventh to break a 6-6 tie and earn their victory. Terry's 66 had led by as much as 5-1 earlier in the game, but a four-run fifth by the Jaycees tied the score.

Eddleman was the winning pitcher, while Miller absorbed the loss.

Crugnale and Pobst banged out three- hits each to lead Triangle to their big rout over KSIM. Triangle belted out 20 hits in all, with 12 different players hitting safely. Pobst pitched a two-hitter and had a shutout going until the fifth.

Carbondale rallies in 8th to beat Scott County 9-8

CARBONDALE — Two runs in the bottom of the eighth spelled the difference as Carbondale's American Legion team came from behind to defeat Scott County 9-8 Thursday evening.

Scott County had taken a 4-2 lead in the top of the second on Dennis Glueck's grand slam homer with two out.

After Carbondale tied the score in the third with a pair, Scott County took the lead again, knocking out starter Bourland. Chris Torbett doubled home the first run of the four- run rally. With the bases loaded, Sikeston's Dale Deal clubbed a single to left that cleared the sacks when the ball was misplayed in the outfield.

Carbondale cut the lead to two in the bottom of the inning with a pair of tallies off loser Larry Jackson. They socred again in the fifth to make it 8-7 and set the stage for their eighth- inning rally that won the game.

Halstead, who entered the game in the fourthinning in relief of Bourland, got credit for the victory. First baseman Whittenberg slapped three hits off Jackson to lead the Illinois hitters.

Glueck had two of the six hits for Scott County, which saw its record fall to 5-3. The team visits Farmington for a twi-night doubleheader Saturday evening before hosting Glasgow Village of St. Louis in a Sunday twinbill at Scott City.

Only two errors in Sr. Babe Ruth

The first game jitters are over for teams in the Sikeston Senior Babe Ruth League, and it showed in the error column of the box scores of last night's games. A total of only two misplays were made in the two ballgames last night as Portageville downed East Prairie 5-3 and Security Bank and Trust blanked Jim Moore 3-0.

Portageville scored a pair in the top of the sixth to win the battle between the two newest teams in the league. David Ellington tossed a two-hitter and banged out two hits himself to pace the Portageville effort. East Prairie had scored all three of its runs in the first, staking loser Todd Marshall to a 3-2 lead.

Security Bank and Trust scored a run in the fourth and two in the fifth to back the one-hit pitching of Jimmie Cowger. Chuck Medelberg was the only Jim Moore hitter to reach Cowger, whose shutout was the best pitching performance turned in so far in the young SBR season.

Three teams eliminated from Little River event

CANALOU — A couple of exciting loser's bracket contests marked Thursday evenings' action in the little River Slow Pitch Tournament at Canalou.

Bernie scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh with two out as they nipped Noranda 5-4. Noranda's pitcher threw wildly to first with the bases loaded after a tap back to the mound that would have sent the game into extra innings. Hutchina had two hits for Bernie.

Jerry Kelly cleared the bases with a two-run triple in the seventh that chased home the tying and winning runs for Shangrila as they edged Jordan Trucking 15-14.

In the other game, New Hamburg blasted four home runs as they dumped Bell Telephone 17-7. Gary Kluesner had two of the round- trippers, while Darrell Kliepfel and Tom Essner each blasted one out.

Kewanee meets Bernie at 6:30 in tonight's first loser's bracket battle, with New Hamburg taking on Shangrila at 8:00 in the second contest. The two winners will survive to face each other in the 9:30 game.

In Saturday's winner's bracket contests, Canalou meets the Sunshine Boys of Oran at 6:30. New Madrid and Jolliff Flights, another pair of unbeaten squads, tangle at 8:00.

Saints avoid Bi-State basement with 6-2 win

PERRYVILLE — Things were in a bad way in Saint-land. Residing near the bottom of the heap in the Bi-State League standings, the Sikeston team traveled to Perryville desperately needing a win. In the classic example of a "total team effort," the squad backed starter Jeff Jackson to the hilt and the 6-3, 200-pounder responded with a solid three-hitter.

Jackson had received somewhat less then total support in his first outings and, with a thin relief corps, had been forced to endure a pair of thrashings after his best stuff left him. Given a semblance of defense behind him, the big hurler was overpowering with his fastball and at the same time baffling with his change-up curve, retiring the side three-up, three-down in seven of the nine innings. Bear in mind the opponents, Perryville, are in second place in the league standings.

"Jeff hasn't pitched poorly this year," noted a teammate. He had allowed the powerful Cape Capahas just twoearned runs through seven innings a week -and-a-half ago, then wilted in the sun at Anna Sunday after pitching four hitless innings.

The win for Jackson was his first as a Saint since the summer of '75, and the key to the win you will find in the pitching statistics under "base on ball." The Kelly grad went to a three- ball count only once and didn't walk a man.

The losing hurler, lefty Ron Heuring, scored both Perryville runs. He picked a high change-up inthe third and lofted a 350-foot homer to right- center. Leading off the ninth, Heuring's popup dropped and he scored on a sacrifice fly by Rob Cissell.

The Saints scored four runs in the fourth, to erase Perryville's 1-0 lead on the homer. Jim Saulter doubled off the leftfield fence and scored on David Shell's single to right. Shell and batter Dave McClarty worked the hit-and-run to perfection and, on the throw, McClarty took second. With one gone, Bruce Lawrence doubled over the centerfielder's head for a pair and Charlie Miller capped the rally with a run-scoring single. Miller ended the night with three-four four.

Ronnie Baker walked to start the fifth, and stole second. Shell again produced a run-producing safety and the Saint catcher later scampered home on a wild pitch.

The Saints return to V. F. W. Stadium for three games this weekend. Mitch Walker will start a 7:30 non-league game Saturday night against Leadwood. Sunday afternoon Mike Brasher and Ricky Taylor will start the twinbill against Herrin. That starts at 1 p.m.

The Saints league record is 2-4.

Second IN COMMAND

A tip of the cap goes to Cape Central's Bob Volkerding, who was drafted by the Philadelphia Phillies earlier this week in the Major League Free Agent Draft. All who know him swear by this talented young outfielder both as a performer and a person.

A left-handed swinger, Volkerding hit for a .429 average for Central this year. He had started since he was a sophomore.

The effort by Jeff Jackson against Perryville was an encouraging one for the Saints, to say the least. Shoddy defense and too many walks had hurt the team in the early going. The Saints would get behind by several runs early, due to errors and walks, and that took away the running game and most of the offensive strategy that can be employed. Jeff's re-discovery of the strike zone and the addition of several new faces to the pitching staff make a run at the league playoffs a very good possibility.

In the near future Mike Brasher should be recovered from his foot injury and Ricky Taylor, another quality pitcher, will join the team. Glen Alexander, the squad's best pitcher in the early going, got a new job that will interfere with his availability, but he will be able to help on a limited basis.

Much like the NBA and NFL, the highlight of the Bi-State year is the post-season playoffs and most teams point to them during the season. They arent awfully hard to qualify for, since the top four teams in a six-team league make it.

First-place would be an even longer shot. Like the L. A. Dodgers, the Caps seem to have too much pitching to expect them to fold and our team hasn't shown any ability to beatth hard-hitting Cape Girardeauans.

Speaking of the Caps, slighting remarks made by that team in the press after some lopsided victories lately hasn't exactly endeared them to the rest of the league. Comments about "lack of competition" and no "good opposition so far" have drawn the ire of many of the league coaches and most of the team's are pointing to the men with the loose lips, hoping to prove them wrong. There's little the Sikeston team can say to dispute theCapaha bragging, since the Saints didn't play well at all (as a matter of fact, they stunk) against Cape.

But, it's an old proverb in sports that you "let a sleeping dog lie," or something to that effect. It simply makes more sense.

However, I guess the best time to brag is when you're winning, and Cape does have a good team.

Just ask them.

Summertime brings a plethora of activity at the various Sikeston parks and the Standard sports page could accurately be labeled the "Standard box scores" page. Because of this, the columns are certainly spaced farther apart. We'll try to make sure of at least two -- one from the Sports Editor and myelf -- per week.

That would leave plenty of time for letters to Forum, about the Cardinals, our coverage of local sports, prospects for the Fall, etc Response to "How will the Cards do in 1977?" were sparse and non-committal.

I know so many people who have opinions about everything in sports and aren't shy about volunteering them. Does this mean those folks can't write?

Carbondale rallies in 8th to beat Scott County 9-8

CARBONDALE — Two runs in the bottom of the eighth spelled the difference as Carbondale's American Legion team came from behind to defeat Scott County 9-8 Thursday evening.

Scott County had taken a 4-2 lead in the top of the second on Dennis Glueck's grand slam homer with two out.

After Carbondale tied the score in the third with a pair, Scott County took the lead again, knocking out starter Bourland. Chris Torbett doubled home the first run of the four- run rally. With the bases loaded, Sikeston's Dale Deal clubbed a single to left that cleared the sacks when the ball was misplayed in the outfield.

Carbondale cut the lead to two in the bottom of the inning with a pair of tallies off loser Larry Jackson. They socred again in the fifth to make it 8-7 and set the stage for their eighth- inning rally that won the game.

Halstead, who entered the game in the fourthinning in relief of Bourland, got credit for the victory. First baseman Whittenberg slapped three hits off Jackson to lead the Illinois hitters.

Glueck had two of the six hits for Scott County, which saw its record fall to 5-3. The team visits Farmington for a twi-night doubleheader Saturday evening before hosting Glasgow Village of St. Louis in a Sunday twinbill at Scott City.

Only two errors in Sr. Babe Ruth

The first game jitters are over for teams in the Sikeston Senior Babe Ruth League, and it showed in the error column of the box scores of last night's games. A total of only two misplays were made in the two ballgames last night as Portageville downed East Prairie 5-3 and Security Bank and Trust blanked Jim Moore 3-0.

Portageville scored a pair in the top of the sixth to win the battle between the two newest teams in the league. David Ellington tossed a two-hitter and banged out two hits himself to pace the Portageville effort. East Prairie had scored all three of its runs in the first, staking loser Todd Marshall to a 3-2 lead.

Security Bank and Trust scored a run in the fourth and two in the fifth to back the one-hit pitching of Jimmie Cowger. Chuck Medelberg was the only Jim Moore hitter to reach Cowger, whose shutout was the best pitching performance turned in so far in the young SBR season.

Jaycees edge 66; Triangle rips KSIM

Fans who enjoy close, well-played games got what they wanted last night in the Minor Divisionof the Sikeston womens and Girls Softball Association. But then again, fans who like wide open games got to see what they wanted, too.

The Jaycees nipped Terry's 66 6-5 in the more exciting of the two Minor Division battles. Triangle clouted KSIM 21-1 in the other game.

The Jaycees scored a run in the bottom of the seventh to break a 6-6 tie and earn their victory. Terry's 66 had led by as much as 5-1 earlier in the game, but a four-run fifth by the Jaycees tied the score.

Eddieman was the winning pitcher, while Miller absorbed the loss.

Crugnale and Pobst banged out three- hits each to lead Triangle to their big rout over KSIM. Triangle belted out 20 hits in all, with 12 different players hitting safely. Pobst pitched a two-hitter and had a shutout going until the fifth.

Three teams eliminated from Little River event

CANALOU — A couple of exciting loser's bracket contests marked Thursday evenings' action in the little River Slow Pitch Tournament at Canalou.

Bernie scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh with two out as they nipped Noranda 5-4. Noranda's pitcher threw wildly to first with the bases loaded after a tap back to the mound that would have sent the game into extra innings. Hutchina had two hits for Bernie.

Jerry Kelly cleared the bases with a two-run triple in the seventh that chased home the tying and winning runs for Shangrila as they edged Jordan Trucking 15-14.

In the other game, New Hamburg blasted four home runs as they dumped Bell Telephone 17-7. Gary Kluesner had two of the round- trippers, while Darrell Kliepfel and Tom Essner each blasted one out.

Kewanee meets Bernie at 6:30 in tonight's first loser's bracket battle, with New Hamburg taking on Shangrila at 8:00 in the second contest. The two winners will survive to face each other in the 9:30 game.

In Saturday's winner's bracket contests, Canalou meets the Sunshine Boys of Oran at 6:30. New Madrid and Jolliff Flights, another pair of unbeaten squads, tangle at 8:00.

HIGH-LOW GAMES

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Golden State Warriors went from the basketball ridiculous to the sublime in just 24 hours during the 1976-77 season. On March 18 they scored only eight points in the first quarter of a 98-85 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers. It was a two-year low.

The next night, however, the Warriors pulverized Indiana, 150-91. It not only was the largest point total for Golden State since the Warriors moved to the West Coast in 1962, but the 59-point margin of victory was the largest in five years or since the NBA record was set by the Los Angeles Lakers on March 19, 1972, a 162-99 triumph over those same Golden State Warriors.

Merchants & SNB claim fastpitch wins

Security National clouted the Merchants 13-4 and Purkey's Restaurant nipped Eby's 3-2 last night in the Sikeston Fastpitch Softball League.

Larry Burden's homer highlighted an eight-run fifth for Security National as they toppled the Merchants. Tom Masterson outhurled Tom Stinnett to get credit for the victory.

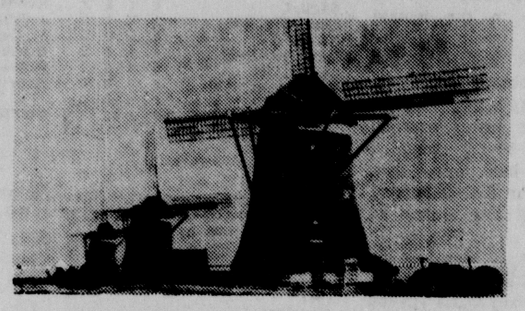

The Vines brothers teamed to help Purkey's edge Eby's Distributing in the nightcap. Jim homered in the first to offset an inside -the- park clout by Jim Shuffit of Eby's in the same inning. Brother John Vines was 2-for-3 and scored runs in the second and fourth -- both times on sacrifice flies.

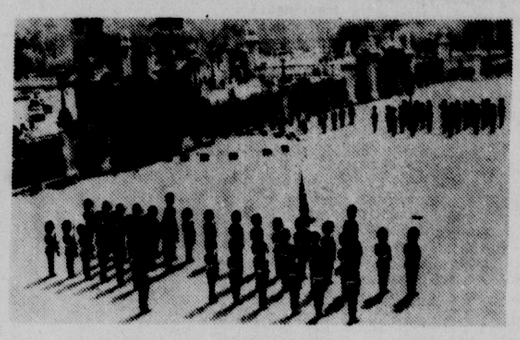

Bob Stinnett was the winning pitcher for Purkey's which pulled into a second place tie with Steward Steel in the league standings. Don Cook was the losing hurler.

The Salt Cathedral of Aipaquira, Columbia, 32 miles north of Bogota, is an actual church carved with Gothic arches 1,300 feet underground in a salt mine. The church can accomodate 10,000 worshippers.

HIGH-LOW GAMES

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Golden State Warriors went from the basketball ridiculous to the sublime in just 24 hours during the 1976-77 season. On March 18 they scored only eight points in the first quarter of a 98-85 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers. It was a two-year low.

The next night, however, the Warriors pulverized Indiana, 150-91. It not only was the largest point total for Golden State since the Warriors moved to the West Coast in 1962, but the 59-point margin of victory was the largest in five years or since the NBA record was set by the Los Angeles Lakers on March 19, 1972, a 162-99 triumph over those same Golden State Warriors.

Sikeston native revives artistic drawing talent

By SUSIE PAYNE

"I have always drawn faces since I was a little girl, said Cathy Rutledge of her revival of artwork in the past year. "I don't know why, I just have a thing about them."

Cathy is the former Catherine Ann Bess, daughter of Mrs. Roy A. Bess of Sikeston, who has been doing portrait work this week in the Kingsway Mall.

"I do my work from photographs and actual sittings. The difference in these types is, the photo captures every concept of the subject's face and the live portrait is how the artist sees the subject.

Being a realistic artist, she primarily works to capture the facial expression of her subjects.

She does some charcoal work, but her favorite media is pencil and pastel. "I guess I like pastels because I got my first set when I was 12 years old, when I was first drawing." But also from the pastels come paintings done by Mrs. Rutledge. "Instead of the subjects coming in and posing for several hours, as it takes normally, I merely do a pastel of them, which takes one to two hours and then copy the pastel into a painting. A person can usually have his finished portrait in two weeks."

Mrs. Rutledge had done artwork until she entered college, when she decided to major in music and Spanish. "I had taken piano lessons since I was a child and it seemed like the natural thing to do. I knew I would not lose touch with my art." But after moving to Iowa City and becoming interested in the art department at the university, she was inspired to begin her actual work again.

Mrs. Rutledge also does her own photography work on subjects from which she adds to her artistic creativity, and does much camera study. Always keeping a camera by her side, after finishing a portrait she might ask the subject if she may take a photograph and then she takes artistic freedom in changing the subject by maybe bending an ear, taking away a wart or adding a twinkle to the eye.

Mrs. Rutledge has been commissioned to do a portrait of Julius Burroughs, golf pro, who will be at the VIP Celebrity Golf Tournament June 20 in Iowa City. Burroughs helped organize this annual golf championship, which began 10 years ago.

Her plans for the summer include returning to Sikeston during the Jaycee Rodeo where she is scheduled to have a show at Ye Old Cobblestone Art Gallery.

She also will have a showing at the All Iowa Fair and the Iowa State Fair, where she will do a total of 21 days of portrait work.

Scott City lets trash contract

SCOTT CITY— Jack Holder, owner and operator of City Sanitation Services, was awarded a three-year contract for city trash hauling by the City Council here Monday night.

His bid of $3 per month per residence for twice weekly pickup also included the required performance bond and insurance. Only other bidder was Evans Disposal, which offered no performance bond or insurance with its bid.

The mandatory trash service will begin July 5; fees are to be collected by the city. They will be put on monthly water bills.

This is the second bid the city has awarded Holder. The first bid was challenged several years ago when a city trash hauling service was first initiated by Orley Jackson on a legality of the hauler doing his own collecting.

The controversy over Holder's original bid continued more than a year and was finally ended when Mr. Holder notified the council he would be unable to meet the performance bond requirement of $40,000. Bids were re-let, with Jackson being awarded the bid. He too, was unable to meet the performance bond, but gave the city the mortage to home in lieu of it.

Problems arose soon after the service was started, with many people electing not to use the service, which at that time was not compulsory.

Several months ago, the Jacksons notified councilmen their home insurance was canceled and arrangements were made to terminate their operation of the service as of July 1.

In other business, the council passed a motion to raise court costs in City Court here from $10 to $15, and passed an ordinance regulating fines. These can be no less that $5 nor no more than $300, with imprisonment of no less than one day to as much as 30 days in the city jail, or offenders can be punished with both fines and imprisonment.

The council voted to donate $300 to help pay for bleachers at Illmo City Ball Park because a number of Scott City youngsters use the facilities, too. A formal resolution authorizing joint cooperation with Illmo and Kelso in a sewer study was also acted upon favorably. The study is the first step in what the cities hope eventually will materialize into a sewer system for all three localities.

Work began Tuesday on improvements at the City Dog Pound. During a recent inspection of the pound, a humane officer stipulated that water must be put in at the pound. Until now, water has been carried to the facility.

Bids by Girardeau Contractors to pave roads in Scott City Community Park and Colony Park drive were accepted, and Mrs. Nevan Fisher was reappointed to a three-year term on the Planning and Zoning Commission. Charles Bertrand, councilman, was appointed to replace Pat O'Brien, who resigned, on the commission.

Stronger joints called key to safer homes

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — With slight modifications in design, homes that would collapse in 80 to 90 mile an hour winds, could withstand tornadoes with wind speeds of up to 200 m.p.h., a University of Kansas professor of aerospace engineering says.

Vincent Muirhead, co-author of a book, "Thunderstorms, Tornadoes and Building Damage," says that while most of the material in modern homes would withstand tornado winds, weak joints cause the buildings to collapse.

In addition to building homes with stronger joints, Muirhead suggested reducing wind damage by building homes with sloping roofs and surrounding them with trees. He said this would also reduce heating and cooling costs.

He also suggested that mobile homes be placed in a "pit" to decrease buffeting by the wind.

Muirhead said he became interested in house design while considering wind problems in aircraft landings.

Hurt, 21, of Lumberton, Miss., was reportedly traveling at an excessive speed on Interstate 55, one mile south of Steele, when the right front tire blew out, causing the southbound vehicle to cross the median, the northbound lane and an access road, running into a ditch.

A Poplar Bluff woman received moderate injuries in a two- car accident at 3:15 p.m. Thursday on Route W, three miles north of Poplar Bluff. Injured was Debra Fay Sparkman, 22, of Poplar Bluff.

The Sparkman woman's car and a car driven by Stephen Leslie Leroux, 20, of Doniphan, were both northbound, with the Leroux vehicle behind the Sparkman car. Leroux was passing the Sparkman woman when she pulled out to pass an unidentified vehicle in front of her car, sideswiping Leroux's vehicle. The Sparkman car ran off the road and overturned. The woman was taken to Doctor's Hospital at Poplar Bluff.

A one- car accident at 11:15 p.m. Thursday, seven miles north of Parma on Highway 153, resulted in serious injuries to the driver. Calvin G. Conner, 36, of Morehouse, was driving his vehicle north when the car ran off the road and struck a bridge abutment. He was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

Two Herculaneum men were treated and released for injuries they received following an accident involving a pickup truck and a tractor trailer at 11:15 p.m. Thursday. The accident happened on I-55, eight miles south of Steele at the Arkansas- Missouri state line.

According to the patrol, the accident occurred when the tractor trailer, driven north by Jasper H. Taylor, 56, of Indianappolis, Ind. struck the pickup, also traveling north and driven by Edward Leroy Logan, 19, of Herculaneum, in the rear. The Logan truck crossed the median and overturned. The tractor trailer jackknifed in the median.

Logan sustained minor injuries and a passenger in his vehicle, Ronny Stewart, 21, of Hercualaneum, had moderate injuries. Both men were treated and released at Chickasawba Hospital in Blytheville, Ark.

tual police duties to determine if she could be in line for additional money.

A petition reportedly incirculation, pertaining to the display and sale of pornographic books and magazines in the city, was not presented to the council Thursday night as rumored it would be. However, the council discussed the issue briefly and instructed city attorney David Mann to see what legal jurisdiction the city has on such matters.

An ordinance issuing tax bills for the paving of Lombardy Drive and West Pine Street was also adopted.

On recommendation of City Administrator Frank Carter, a park board with nine new members was appointed. Appointed for three-year terms were Robert Hess, Barbara McKinley and Delbert Wilson. Two-year appointees are Edward Falkoff, Kathy Maloney, and Betty Johnson and for one-year terms Mike Hogan, Bernard Ivie, and Kathy Redfering.

A resolution authorizing Mayor L. F. LaPlant Jr. and the park board to make a pre-application for a matching funds grant to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for park improvements was approved.

According to Carter, the pre-application seeks $30,000 grant-in-aid for improvements to the swimming pool park and the establishment of a park at the south end of Cutlitch Street.

Also approved was the appointment of Councilman Bill Skaggs and Delbert Wilson to the Planning and Zoning Commission, replacing Roy Hilton and Marian "Bud" Morgan.

A request from Wayne Kinsolving for a license permitting him to do custom barbecuing back of his home on North Street was referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

In routine action, the council approved the collector's report for May of $28,398.88; police judge report of $1,413 in assessed fines; and extended expenditures for May in the amount of $17,942.04.

Informal panel to probe cosmetology activities

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — An informal committee composed of three Missouri state senators is investigating activities in the cosmetology profession in northeast Missouri.

Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, told the Senate Thursday that he met with Sens. John Schneider, Paul Bradshaw and Norman Merrell to discuss published reports that Merrell made 543 long distance telephone calls during a 19-month period in 1975 and 1976 to a Shelbina beauty shop owner.

Merrell, a Monticello Democrat, said the calls he made on his state credit card to Carlene Orr were on state business and constituent problems. Mrs. Orr served on the state Board of Cosmetology and later was appointed as the board's executive secretary.

Webster said news stories revealing the $1,900 in calls made by Merrell to Mrs. Orr made it obvious that an attack was being made upon Merrell.

Merrell and Sen. Mary Gant, D-Kansas City, were accused of interfering in the cosmetology board's affairs to influence the hiring of Mrs. Orr to the $14,000 a year position. George Uffmann resigned as director of the Division of Professional Registration which oversees the board's activities, after the board voted to hire Mrs. Orr.

Webster said Schneider, a St. Louis County Democrat, suggested that there should be an investigation by the Senate and a complete disclosure of any impropreties on the part of Merrell and Mrs. Gant. Webster, Schneider and Bradshaw, a Springfield Republican, met with Merrell in late May to determine whether the calls made by the president pro tem of the Senate were on legitimate state business.

Artist and pastel

Sikeston native revives artistic drawing talent

By SUSIE PAYNE

"I have always drawn faces since I was a little girl, said Cathy Rutledge of her revival of artwork in the past year. "I don't know why, I just have a thing about them."

Cathy is the former Catherine Ann Bess, daughter of Mrs. Roy A. Bess of Sikeston, who has been doing portrait work this week in the Kingsway Mall.

"I do my work from photographs and actual sittings. The difference in these types is, the photo captures every concept of the subject's face and the live portrait is how the artist sees the subject.

Being a realistic artist, she primarily works to capture the facial expression of her subjects.

She does some charcoal work, but her favorite media is pencil and pastel. "I guess I like pastels because I got my first set when I was 12 years old, when I was first drawing." But also from the pastels come paintings done by Mrs. Rutledge. "Instead of the subjects coming in and posing for several hours, as it takes normally, I merely do a pastel of them, which takes one to two hours and then copy the pastel into a painting. A person can usually have his finished portrait in two weeks."

Mrs. Rutledge had done artwork until she entered college, when she decided to major in music and Spanish. "I had taken piano lessons since I was a child and it seemed like the natural thing to do. I knew I would not lose touch with my art." But after moving to Iowa City and becoming interested in the art department at the university, she was inspired to begin her actual work again.

Mrs. Rutledge also does her own photography work on subjects from which she adds to her artistic creativity, and does much camera study. Always keeping a camera by her side, after finishing a portrait she might ask the subject if she may take a photograph and then she takes artistic freedom in changing the subject by maybe bending an ear, taking away a wart or adding a twinkle to the eye.

Mrs. Rutledge has been commissioned to do a portrait of Julius Burroughs, golf pro, who will be at the VIP Celebrity Golf Tournament June 20 in Iowa City. Burroughs helped organize this annual golf championship, which began 10 years ago.

Her plans for the summer include returning to Sikeston during the Jaycee Rodeo where she is scheduled to have a show at Ye Old Cobblestone Art Gallery.

She also will have a showing at the All Iowa Fair and the Iowa State Fair, where she will do a total of 21 days of portrait work.

Scott City lets trash contract

SCOTT CITY— Jack Holder, owner and operator of City Sanitation Services, was awarded a three-year contract for city trash hauling by the City Council here Monday night.

His bid of $3 per month per residence for twice weekly pickup also included the required performance bond and insurance. Only other bidder was Evans Disposal, which offered no performance bond or insurance with its bid.

The mandatory trash service will begin July 5; fees are to be collected by the city. They will be put on monthly water bills.

This is the second bid the city has awarded Holder. The first bid was challenged several years ago when a city trash hauling service was first initiated by Orley Jackson on a legality of the hauler doing his own collecting.

The controversy over Holder's original bid continued more than a year and was finally ended when Mr. Holder notified the council he would be unable to meet the performance bond requirement of $40,000. Bids were re-let, with Jackson being awarded the bid. He too, was unable to meet the performance bond, but gave the city the mortage to home in lieu of it.

Problems arose soon after the service was started, with many people electing not to use the service, which at that time was not compulsory.

Several months ago, the Jacksons notified councilmen their home insurance was canceled and arrangements were made to terminate their operation of the service as of July 1.

In other business, the council passed a motion to raise court costs in City Court here from $10 to $15, and passed an ordinance regulating fines. These can be no less that $5 nor no more than $300, with imprisonment of no less than one day to as much as 30 days in the city jail, or offenders can be punished with both fines and imprisonment.

The council voted to donate $300 to help pay for bleachers at Illmo City Ball Park because a number of Scott City youngsters use the facilities, too. A formal resolution authorizing joint cooperation with Illmo and Kelso in a sewer study was also acted upon favorably. The study is the first step in what the cities hope eventually will materialize into a sewer system for all three localities.

Work began Tuesday on improvements at the City Dog Pound. During a recent inspection of the pound, a humane officer stipulated that water must be put in at the pound. Until now, water has been carried to the facility.

Bids by Girardeau Contractors to pave roads in Scott City Community Park and Colony Park drive were accepted, and Mrs. Nevan Fisher was reappointed to a three-year term on the Planning and Zoning Commission. Charles Bertrand, councilman, was appointed to replace Pat O'Brien, who resigned, on the commission.

Stronger joints called key to safer homes

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — With slight modifications in design, homes that would collapse in 80 to 90 mile an hour winds, could withstand tornadoes with wind speeds of up to 200 m.p.h., a University of Kansas professor of aerospace engineering says.

Vincent Muirhead, co-author of a book, "Thunderstorms, Tornadoes and Building Damage," says that while most of the material in modern homes would withstand tornado winds, weak joints cause the buildings to collapse.

In addition to building homes with stronger joints, Muirhead suggested reducing wind damage by building homes with sloping roofs and surrounding them with trees. He said this would also reduce heating and cooling costs.

He also suggested that mobile homes be placed in a "pit" to decrease buffeting by the wind.

Muirhead said he became interested in house design while considering wind problems in aircraft landings.

A Poplar Bluff woman received moderate injuries in a two- car accident at 3:15 p.m. Thursday on Route W, three miles north of Poplar Bluff. Injured was Debra Fay Sparkman, 22, of Poplar Bluff.

The Sparkman woman's car and a car driven by Stephen Leslie Leroux, 20, of Doniphan, were both northbound, with the Leroux vehicle behind the Sparkman car. Leroux was passing the Sparkman woman when she pulled out to pass an unidentified vehicle in front of her car, sideswiping Leroux's vehicle. The Sparkman car ran off the road and overturned. The woman was taken to Doctor's Hospital at Poplar Bluff.

A one- car accident at 11:15 p.m. Thursday, seven miles north of Parma on Highway 153, resulted in serious injuries to the driver. Calvin G. Conner, 36, of Morehouse, was driving his vehicle north when the car ran off the road and struck a bridge abutment. He was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

Two Herculaneum men were treated and released for injuries they received following an accident involving a pickup truck and a tractor trailer at 11:15 p.m. Thursday. The accident happened on I-55, eight miles south of Steele at the Arkansas- Missouri state line.

According to the patrol, the accident occurred when the tractor trailer, driven north by Jasper H. Taylor, 56, of Indianappolis, Ind. struck the pickup, also traveling north and driven by Edward Leroy Logan, 19, of Herculaneum, in the rear. The Logan truck crossed the median and overturned. The tractor trailer jackknifed in the median.

Logan sustained minor injuries and a passenger in his vehicle, Ronny Stewart, 21, of Hercualaneum, had moderate injuries. Both men were treated and released at Chickasawba Hospital in Blytheville, Ark.

tual police duties to determine if she could be in line for additional money.

A petition reportedly incirculation, pertaining to the display and sale of pornographic books and magazines in the city, was not presented to the council Thursday night as rumored it would be. However, the council discussed the issue briefly and instructed city attorney David Mann to see what legal jurisdiction the city has on such matters.

An ordinance issuing tax bills for the paving of Lombardy Drive and West Pine Street was also adopted.

On recommendation of City Administrator Frank Carter, a park board with nine new members was appointed. Appointed for three-year terms were Robert Hess, Barbara McKinley and Delbert Wilson. Two-year appointees are Edward Falkoff, Kathy Maloney, and Betty Johnson and for one-year terms Mike Hogan, Bernard Ivie, and Kathy Redfering.

A resolution authorizing Mayor L. F. LaPlant Jr. and the park board to make a pre-application for a matching funds grant to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for park improvements was approved.

According to Carter, the pre-application seeks $30,000 grant-in-aid for improvements to the swimming pool park and the establishment of a park at the south end of Cutlitch Street.

Also approved was the appointment of Councilman Bill Skaggs and Delbert Wilson to the Planning and Zoning Commission, replacing Roy Hilton and Marian "Bud" Morgan.

A request from Wayne Kinsolving for a license permitting him to do custom barbecuing back of his home on North Street was referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

In routine action, the council approved the collector's report for May of $28,398.88; police judge report of $1,413 in assessed fines; and extended expenditures for May in the amount of $17,942.04.

Informal panel to probe cosmetology activities

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — An informal committee composed of three Missouri state senators is investigating activities in the cosmetology profession in northeast Missouri.

Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, told the Senate Thursday that he met with Sens. John Schneider, Paul Bradshaw and Norman Merrell to discuss published reports that Merrell made 543 long distance telephone calls during a 19-month period in 1975 and 1976 to a Shelbina beauty shop owner.

Merrell, a Monticello Democrat, said the calls he made on his state credit card to Carlene Orr were on state business and constituent problems. Mrs. Orr served on the state Board of Cosmetology and later was appointed as the board's executive secretary.

Webster said news stories revealing the $1,900 in calls made by Merrell to Mrs. Orr made it obvious that an attack was being made upon Merrell.

Merrell and Sen. Mary Gant, D-Kansas City, were accused of interfering in the cosmetology board's affairs to influence the hiring of Mrs. Orr to the $14,000 a year position. George Uffmann resigned as director of the Division of Professional Registration which oversees the board's activities, after the board voted to hire Mrs. Orr.

Webster said Schneider, a St. Louis County Democrat, suggested that there should be an investigation by the Senate and a complete disclosure of any impropreties on the part of Merrell and Mrs. Gant. Webster, Schneider and Bradshaw, a Springfield Republican, met with Merrell in late May to determine whether the calls made by the president pro tem of the Senate were on legitimate state business.

Fulbright sermon read in Congress

"The Communist Conspiracy Is Known", a sermon the rev. Dr. Arthur C. Fulbright delivered March 13 at First United Methodist Church, Highway 61 North, was presented on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives in Washington by Missouri 8th District Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Houston.

In calling the attention of his colleagues to the sermon and requesting that it be published in the Congressional Record (May 26), Ichord said Dr. Fulbright's sermon points out the great need for Americans to "renew our idealism as a Christian republic and to regain our spiritual heritage. It is a sermon which I recommend to all of my colleagues as a challenge to us and to our nation."

The sermon points out the amazingly rapid spread of communism across much of Europe and Asia through such tactics and techniques as conquest, subversion and infiltration with the ultimate objective of world conquest.

Dr. Fulbright then links the rapid rise of communism to a parallel eroding of moral values in society, which he says is destroying the nation through seven deadly sins: 1. Politics without principle; 2. pleasure without conscience; 3. knowledge without work; 4. wages without labor; 5. business without morality; 6. science without humanity; 7. worship without sacrifice.

At the center of the communist plot to take over the world, the sermon points out a strategy on their part to foment trouble throughout the world without becoming directly involved and to await a gradual wearing down of the United States and other democratic nations through planned uprisings, infiltration and allowing moral, spiritual and psychological decay to run its course until a time judged ripe for conquest.

As a means of thwarting the communist plot, Dr. Fulbright says America's, and uiltimately the world's hope is found in II Chron. 7:14 -- "If my people, who are called by my name shall humble themselves, and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

IS THERE A HELL?

Dear Mr. Swaim, I find it very upsetting to believe that God would create a hell in which those who make mistakes or sin will spend eternity. There are so many people who seem to be living good lives, yet, don't do everything they are asked to do. Surely God will not condemn these people to hell.

God possesses perfect love and perfect justice. His love sent His Son to die for our sins. His justice demands that we receive this mercy and grace through obedience to Him. Satan, from the beginning, has always tried to convince us that God could never condemn us to hell. He questions God's justice and casts doubt on His word, but there are repeated examples throughout the Old and New Testaments where God has always been true to His commitments and God has never issued a command nor made a request that He did not intend to keep Himself or expect us to keep.

In the beginning when Adam and Eve selected to sin, God said, "You will surely die." It may seem unfair to man to have to die, yet, death comes as a result of our sins. Also, spiritual death comes as a result of sin, that is, separation from God.

We know that in judgment God will be fair and just. He will not judge as we so often do on erroneous or insufficient evidence, but His judgment will be harsh for those who reject Him and those who refuse to take the time to learn how He has asked them to live. It is difficult for us to understand God's judgment. Romans 11:33: "O the depth of the riches, both of the wisdom and knowledge of God, how unsearchable are His judgments and His ways past finding out!" It is right that we should be punished for our sins and the scriptures teach that hell is that punishment for those who refuse to acknowledge and follow God through Jesus Christ.

Catholic bishops approve change in communion

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Roman Catholic bishops have voted to break with a millenium-old church practice of distributing communion on the tongues of worshippers and to restore an even older way — distributing it in their hands.

That's how it was done in ancient Christianity and for the first nine centuries of church history.

But the decision Thursday to revive that alternative, changing the present custom that has prevailed for the past 1,100 years, came amid continuing opposition in some sectors of the church.

While papal approval still was needed to implement the change, this seemed almost certain since it already has been given in 43 other countries.

The U.S. decision came through results of a mailed poll of 29 bishops absent from a bishops' meeting last month in Chicago, where a 174-to-71 vote of those present for the change fell nine short of the two-thirds needed for passage — 183 of all 274 active bishops.

But the mailed ballots — 16 affirmative, eight negative and five not replying — brought the favorable total to 190 — seven more than needed. The negative total was raised to 79.

A spokesman for the bishops in Washington, D.C., said the custom of distributing communion on the tongue will remain the rule until papal approval of the new option is received.

The practice of distributing communion on the tongues of worshippers developed in the ninth century in a time of growing distinction between clergy and laity. Only the hands of the priests were deemed fit to touch the consecrated bread.

But the contemporary resurgence of emphasis on the importance and dignity of the laity stirred the movement to return to the original practice of receiving in the hands as more mature and dignified.

It's the long-time practice among Protestants.

The first indoor ice skating rink was built in New York City in 1879 at Madison Square Garden.

No. 3. The Wise Men Worship the Christ Child

The wise men from the east had come to worship the newborn king of the Jews. Naturally, King Herod, who was sorely troubled, attempted to use these men to locate the Christ Child.

"When they had heard the king, they departed: and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy." (Matthew 2:9-10)

"And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh." (Matthew 2:11)

Murray Lane Baptist Church honors pastor

The Rev. H. Wade Paris, pastor of Murray Lane Baptist Church, 807 W. Murray Lane, became Dr. Paris last Friday when he was awarded a doctor of ministries degree during graduation exercises at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

Sunday afternoon, members and friends of the Murray Lane church surprised him with a dinner and recognition service in honor of his attainment of the doctoral degree and 10th anniversary as pastor of the local church.

Following the basket dinner in the church dining hall, the congregation assembled in the sanctuary for the recognition service, which included a skit, singing by the adult and children's choirs, reading of letters from notable wellwishers unable to attend the service and testimonials by members of the congregation.

In addition to the doctor's degree, which he has earned while serving the Murray Lane church, Dr. Paris holds a master of divinity degree from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary at Wake Forest, N.C., and a bachelor of arts degree from Union University at Jackson, Tenn.

Prior to becoming pastor of Murray Lane Baptist Church on the first Sunday in June 1967, he had served as pastor of Liberty Grove Baptist Church at Jackson, Tenn., Jesse Howell Chapel in Durham, N.C., Johnson Grove Baptist Church in Crockett County, Tenn., and Western Valley Baptist Church at Covington, Tenn.

Dr. and Mrs. Paris are the parents of two sons, Scott and Steven, and two daughters, Susan and Sally. During the recognition service, the Parises were presented a gift certificate for a family portrait.

Fulbright sermon read in Congress

"The Communist Conspiracy Is Known", a sermon the rev. Dr. Arthur C. Fulbright delivered March 13 at First United Methodist Church, Highway 61 North, was presented on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives in Washington by Missouri 8th District Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Houston.

In calling the attention of his colleagues to the sermon and requesting that it be published in the Congressional Record (May 26), Ichord said Dr. Fulbright's sermon points out the great need for Americans to "renew our idealism as a Christian republic and to regain our spiritual heritage. It is a sermon which I recommend to all of my colleagues as a challenge to us and to our nation."

The sermon points out the amazingly rapid spread of communism across much of Europe and Asia through such tactics and techniques as conquest, subversion and infiltration with the ultimate objective of world conquest.

Dr. Fulbright then links the rapid rise of communism to a parallel eroding of moral values in society, which he says is destroying the nation through seven deadly sins: 1. Politics without principle; 2. pleasure without conscience; 3. knowledge without work; 4. wages without labor; 5. business without morality; 6. science without humanity; 7. worship without sacrifice.

At the center of the communist plot to take over the world, the sermon points out a strategy on their part to foment trouble throughout the world without becoming directly involved and to await a gradual wearing down of the United States and other democratic nations through planned uprisings, infiltration and allowing moral, spiritual and psychological decay to run its course until a time judged ripe for conquest.

As a means of thwarting the communist plot, Dr. Fulbright says America's, and uiltimately the world's hope is found in II Chron. 7:14 -- "If my people, who are called by my name shall humble themselves, and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

What's the law?

The case of the snoopy neighbor

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Hester was a busybody who burned her scandals at both ends. She lived in an apartment building where nothing passed her unnoticed. And, needless to say, over a period of time, her neighbors found her prying trying. Therefore, they finally got together and demanded that she be booted out of their building.

"She's not a neighbor," they protested in court, "she's a warden. She knows when a person is going to sneeze at least three days before he does it, and it's getting to be downright disconcerting."

"I don't know why they're so upset," responded Hester. "I love them all -- that's why I pay so much attention to what they're doing. I'm just a concerned observer. Surely a person can't be evicted for that!"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you evict snoopy Hester from her apartment?

This is how the judge ruled: NO. The judge held that while a busybody who sticks his uninvited nose into the affairs of others is certainly far from an ideal neighbor, such reprehensible and obnoxious conduct is not sufficient legally to require a tenants eviction. However, warned the judge, it can become sufficient cause if the tenant does not mend his ways after becoming aware that his actions are not appreciated by his neighbors.

What's the law?

The case of the snoopy neighbor

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Hester was a busybody who burned her scandals at both ends. She lived in an apartment building where nothing passed her unnoticed. And, needless to say, over a period of time, her neighbors found her prying trying. Therefore, they finally got together and demanded that she be booted out of their building.

"She's not a neighbor," they protested in court, "she's a warden. She knows when a person is going to sneeze at least three days before he does it, and it's getting to be downright disconcerting."

"I don't know why they're so upset," responded Hester. "I love them all -- that's why I pay so much attention to what they're doing. I'm just a concerned observer. Surely a person can't be evicted for that!"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you evict snoopy Hester from her apartment?

This is how the judge ruled: NO. The judge held that while a busybody who sticks his uninvited nose into the affairs of others is certainly far from an ideal neighbor, such reprehensible and obnoxious conduct is not sufficient legally to require a tenants eviction. However, warned the judge, it can become sufficient cause if the tenant does not mend his ways after becoming aware that his actions are not appreciated by his neighbors.

Heart association to meet Saturday

COLUMBIA— The 28th annual meeting of the Missouri Heart Association will be held at the Ramada Inn in Columbia on Saturday. Highlighting the meeting will be the election of officers, the election of directors, and a special program on "Research Dollars in Action".

The special program on research will offer Heart Association volunteers an opportunity to see how heart research directly benefits heart patients. The program will include demonstrations and discussions of research techniques and laboratories. Direct applications to the patient will be stressed to explain in human terms the vital importance of Heart Association support for research.

The research program will be at the University of Missouri-Columbia Medical Center and the Truman Veterans Hospital.

Registration for the program will be between 8:30 and 9:20 a.m., Saturday at the Ramada Inn. Bus transportation will be provided to and from the Medical Center.

All Heart Association annual meeting activities are open open and the public is invited to attend. Meeting registration for all activities will be at the Columbia Ramada Inn. The state Board of Directors will meet at 2:30 p.m. and the annual meeting dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m.

St. Jude Hospital benefit is Saturday

MEMPHIS, Tenn.— Danny Thomas, founder of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, brings the ninth annual Shower of Stars to the Memphis Mid-South Colisem, Saturday at 8 p.m. to benefit his favorite cause.

This year's cast includes Thomas, Wayne Newton, Florence Henderson, Lola Falana, Jerry Clower and Dave Barry.

Ed McMahon, familiar to millions from his long-time association with Johnny Carson's Tonight Show, will be this year's master of ceremonies.

Wayne Newton, now one of Las Vegas' biggest drawing cards, is a show business rarity, a teen-age star who has gone on to please a wide variety of entertainment taste with his musical talents. He currently holds a rare 38-week top billing contract with the five Hughes hotels in Las Vegas. Accompanying Newton to Memphis is Dave Barry, warm-up comedian for the Newton act.

Florence Henderson, star of television's Brady Bunch, is known for the clarity and charm of her songs.

Lola Falana, described by the Los Angeles Times as a "writhing, twisting dynamo of a female" brings a contrasting style to the show. Whether singing, dancing, acting or delivering a funny line, she is a show-stopper.

Jerry Clower, four-time winner of the Best Country Comic title, is, like Danny Thomas, a story teller. His ability to see the bright side of rural Southern life and then convey that in humor has brought laughter to even the most urbane audiences around the country.

Danny Thomas will appear in the role he likes best, using his talents to help St. Jude Children's Research Hospital and helpless children of the world.

Since it opened in 1962, St. Jude has become the world's leading research center in childhood cancer and other catastrophic diseases of children. Thanks to countless people who have joined with with Thomas in this cause, no patient or their family has ever been charged for the treatment received at this institution.

Tickets are on sale at the Coliseum, Goldsmith's Oak Court, Downtown, and Southland Mall, and the Raleigh Springs Mall Information Center. For information, call area code (901) 274-7401.

Woman wins $23,500 damages in shooting suit

BLOOMFIELD— Beth Ann Blount was awarded a $23,500 judgment last week in Stoddard County Circuit Court in a civil damages suit against Marvin Smith of Dexter.

In the petition, the plaintiff stated that on Nov. 2, 1976 at an address in St. Louis, the defendant negligently handled a .22-caliber rifle, which discharged and seriously injured her.

As a result of this negligent action, she said she suffered a bullet would which entered her left shoulder and came to rest in her spinal column. Due to the wound, the plaintiff said she suffered a severed spinal column and paralysis from the waist down.

She asked for $100,000 in damages. The judgment was handed down by Judge Flake McHaney.

In his answer to the petition, the defendant denied all the allegations and said that if the plaintiff suffered damages, it was because she failed to exercise proper care for her own safety.

Carter to review base move

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says Air Force personnel will not be moved from Richards Gebaur Air Force Base unless it is in the best interests of the country.

Carter told a delegation of Missouri leaders Tuesday that he would consider their arguments against moving the personnel to Scott Air Force Base in Illinois.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., said after the meeting that Carter said he would tell Defense Secretary Harold Brown "not to make a move of this sort unless it is in the best interest of the country."

"He said he would consider argument," Eagleton said.

He also said Carter did not indicate any reluctance to step into the issue.

The senator described the 20 minute meeting as amicable and cordial.

Rep. Tom Coleman, R-Mo., said he wasn't very optimistic about chances of stopping the move of personnel to Illinois, but he said he was hopeful some other government use could be found for the base.

"I would imagine that we did not succeed in reversing anyone's decision about Richards-Gebaur, but at least we focused the president's attention on the fact that there is a very fine asset out there for other government uses," Coleman said in a broadcast interview.

Jackson County Executive Mike White said he told the President the cost of moving would be at least $42 million, while Carter said he had been told the cost would be only $13 million.

Heart association to meet Saturday

COLUMBIA— The 28th annual meeting of the Missouri Heart Association will be held at the Ramada Inn in Columbia on Saturday. Highlighting the meeting will be the election of officers, the election of directors, and a special program on "Research Dollars in Action".

The special program on research will offer Heart Association volunteers an opportunity to see how heart research directly benefits heart patients. The program will include demonstrations and discussions of research techniques and laboratories. Direct applications to the patient will be stressed to explain in human terms the vital importance of Heart Association support for research.

The research program will be at the University of Missouri-Columbia Medical Center and the Truman Veterans Hospital.

Registration for the program will be between 8:30 and 9:20 a.m., Saturday at the Ramada Inn. Bus transportation will be provided to and from the Medical Center.

All Heart Association annual meeting activities are open open and the public is invited to attend. Meeting registration for all activities will be at the Columbia Ramada Inn. The state Board of Directors will meet at 2:30 p.m. and the annual meeting dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m.

St. Jude Hospital benefit is Saturday

MEMPHIS, Tenn.— Danny Thomas, founder of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, brings the ninth annual Shower of Stars to the Memphis Mid-South Colisem, Saturday at 8 p.m. to benefit his favorite cause.

This year's cast includes Thomas, Wayne Newton, Florence Henderson, Lola Falana, Jerry Clower and Dave Barry.

Ed McMahon, familiar to millions from his long-time association with Johnny Carson's Tonight Show, will be this year's master of ceremonies.

Wayne Newton, now one of Las Vegas' biggest drawing cards, is a show business rarity, a teen-age star who has gone on to please a wide variety of entertainment taste with his musical talents. He currently holds a rare 38-week top billing contract with the five Hughes hotels in Las Vegas. Accompanying Newton to Memphis is Dave Barry, warm-up comedian for the Newton act.

Florence Henderson, star of television's Brady Bunch, is known for the clarity and charm of her songs.

Lola Falana, described by the Los Angeles Times as a "writhing, twisting dynamo of a female" brings a contrasting style to the show. Whether singing, dancing, acting or delivering a funny line, she is a show-stopper.

Jerry Clower, four-time winner of the Best Country Comic title, is, like Danny Thomas, a story teller. His ability to see the bright side of rural Southern life and then convey that in humor has brought laughter to even the most urbane audiences around the country.

Danny Thomas will appear in the role he likes best, using his talents to help St. Jude Children's Research Hospital and helpless children of the world.

Since it opened in 1962, St. Jude has become the world's leading research center in childhood cancer and other catastrophic diseases of children. Thanks to countless people who have joined with with Thomas in this cause, no patient or their family has ever been charged for the treatment received at this institution.

Tickets are on sale at the Coliseum, Goldsmith's Oak Court, Downtown, and Southland Mall, and the Raleigh Springs Mall Information Center. For information, call area code (901) 274-7401.

Woman wins $23,500 damages in shooting suit

BLOOMFIELD— Beth Ann Blount was awarded a $23,500 judgment last week in Stoddard County Circuit Court in a civil damages suit against Marvin Smith of Dexter.

In the petition, the plaintiff stated that on Nov. 2, 1976 at an address in St. Louis, the defendant negligently handled a .22-caliber rifle, which discharged and seriously injured her.

As a result of this negligent action, she said she suffered a bullet would which entered her left shoulder and came to rest in her spinal column. Due to the wound, the plaintiff said she suffered a severed spinal column and paralysis from the waist down.

She asked for $100,000 in damages. The judgment was handed down by Judge Flake McHaney.

In his answer to the petition, the defendant denied all the allegations and said that if the plaintiff suffered damages, it was because she failed to exercise proper care for her own safety.

Carter to review base move

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says Air Force personnel will not be moved from Richards Gebaur Air Force Base unless it is in the best interests of the country.

Carter told a delegation of Missouri leaders Tuesday that he would consider their arguments against moving the personnel to Scott Air Force Base in Illinois.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., said after the meeting that Carter said he would tell Defense Secretary Harold Brown "not to make a move of this sort unless it is in the best interest of the country."

"He said he would consider argument," Eagleton said.

He also said Carter did not indicate any reluctance to step into the issue.

The senator described the 20 minute meeting as amicable and cordial.

Rep. Tom Coleman, R-Mo., said he wasn't very optimistic about chances of stopping the move of personnel to Illinois, but he said he was hopeful some other government use could be found for the base.

"I would imagine that we did not succeed in reversing anyone's decision about Richards-Gebaur, but at least we focused the president's attention on the fact that there is a very fine asset out there for other government uses," Coleman said in a broadcast interview.

Jackson County Executive Mike White said he told the President the cost of moving would be at least $42 million, while Carter said he had been told the cost would be only $13 million.

Government and industry disagree on affect of Carter energy plan

NEW YORK (AP) — Government and industry officials agree that inflation will push utility bills higher in the next few years. But they disagree on what additional effect President Carter's energy program may have.

"Over the long term, there should be lower rates than there would have otherwise been. But they will be higher than they are today," says Robert I. Hanfling of the Federal Energy Administration.

Paul Wagner, a spokesman for the industry-supported Edison Electric Institute, sees things differently. He predicts higher electic bills because of the Carter program.

"The net effect we see is that bills will go up about 5 per cent (annually) beyond what they would have been," he says, predicting the increase would be in addition to an anticipated a 7 per cent-a-year inflation rate.

According to government statistics, the annual electric bill for an average household increased from $200 before the Arab oil embargo in 1973 to $290 last year.

The institute, a research organization supported by utility companies producing 78 per cent of the nation's power, feels Carter's proposals to push the industry into converting from oil and gas to coal or nuclear power in the near future will be costly.

Discounting the effect of inflation, the institute estimates it will cost $50 billion to covert to coal the 155,000 megawatts of existing and planned oil and gas-fired electric plants expected to be in service in 1985.

The institute says the cost of conversion and addition of environment-protecting equipment for all new coal plants would add $7 billion a year to the nation's electric bill by 1985, the target year in its study.

The trend away from oil and gas has dominated the industry in recent years, but industry spokesmen complain that Carter's plan, which begins levying penalty taxes on oil and gas in 1983, is trying to force the switch too quickly.

"The electric industry would face a huge financial burden to meet a total conversion from gas and oil use," says Paul Crawford, president of the institute.

In addition, the industry research group says Carter-endorsed environmental legislation, which has already begun to move through Congress, would require the addition of expensive and inefficient equipment that would add millions to the cost of building and operating new coal-fired plants.

FEA's Hanfling acknowledges industry would face increased capital costs to convert to coal and install environmental equipment, known as flue scrubbers, on all new plants. But he disagrees with the institute's cost projections.

Utilities should save because they will be paying lower fuel costs after they convert to coal, Hanfling said.

He also says they should realize some long-range savings on construction costs if the President's program is successful in lowering over-all energy consumption and reducing the number of expensive reserve generators needed to meet peak demand periods.

Hanfling and Wagner agree the wide-ranging presidential program is difficult to assess. Many of the proposals which Carter outlined in late April may see substantial changes or be killed in Congress.

Even in its proposed form, specific parts of the plan would affect various regions and individual customers differently.

The energy plan takes a broad approach to changes in the utility field. It includes a proposed system of tax penalties combined with tax credits, aimed at getting utilities which now use natural gas or oil to switch existing plants to coal or build new coal-fired or nuclear power plants.

Areas of the country where utilities are heavily dependent on gas or imported oil — notably the Southwest, California and much of the East Coast — will have to pay more to switch to other energy sources than regions which already have substantial numbers of coal-fired or nuclear powered plants. Government experts note that costs in those areas also would rise substantially if they continued their dependence on current fuels.

In addition, the President's plan calls for state public service commissions to make a number of adjustments in rate schedules including the elimin3tion of so called declining block rates under which some large energy users pay less as they use more gas or electricity.

That and other rate changes make it difficult to determine just how actual costs of energy will eventually be split among residential, commercial and industrial customers.

But there are some voluntary programs that could have direct effects on residential customers who elect to participate. They could help cut electric and heating bills but initially they will require an investment.

Carter's home energy conservation program, for instance, would require utilities to make loans for home insulation and other projects and recommend contractors to do the work.

The consumer could write off a portion of the cost on his taxes. But the interest on the loan would be about the same as a bank loan and would be paid back in installments listed on the customer's regular bill, according to a spokesman for the FEA.

The government estimates that a "typical"family of four paying $670 yearly for heating could save a $120 a year by insulating the attic.

A second voluntary participation program would require that lower rates be offered to consumers who elect to have electric service interrupted during times when power demands are the greatest. But the customer would have to pay the cost of a special meter that measures both the amount of electricity used and the time of day.

While a normal electric meter costs about $20, a meter with a time device runs $50 or $60, according to Robert Uhler of the Electric Power Research Institute.

The Palo Alto, Calif., organization recently surveyed about 45 experimental utility programs that offered special time of day rates and found that customers saved "modest" amounts in some systems but scarely at all in others. He says a consumer would have to use a relatively large amount of electricity to recover the additional metering cost under the Carter proposal.

14,000 Missouri women has abortions last year

JEFFERSON CITY— More than 14,000 Missouri women obtained legal abortions during 1976. Garland Land, director of the Missouri Center for Health Statistics, said last year's abortion total is double the number reported in 1972 when a Missouri woman s still had to go to another state to have a pregnancy aborted legally.

Land says the proportion of pregnancies which end in abortions has grown rapidly since 1973 when abortions first became legal in Missouri. Last year one pregnancy in six was terminated by a legal abortion, compared to one if 12 four years earlier. Despite the increase in abortions, the number of births to unwed mothers continues to increase.

State health officials say the increased use of abortions to end unplanned pregnancies is part of the changing pattern of family life which has seen family size shrink, family mobility increase and more families headed by one parent. While abortions are not considered to be a major cause of the present birth decline, the abortion increase has contributed to birth rates being lower than expectel.Since 1973, the Missouri birth rate has averaged a record low of 14.4 births per 1,000 population.

Land said the chief users of abortions continue to be young single women. Teenagers, 93 per cent of whom were unmarried, accounted for more than one-third of all abortions reported in 1976 and another third were obtained by womed betwee ages 20 and 24, 75 per cent of whom were single. Married women also are turning more to legal abortions to prevent the births of unwanted children. Last year more than 3,750 married women had pregnancies aborted, 1,000 more than in 1975. Land says this increase may indicate a growing tendency among married couples to use abortion to control family size since "abortion on demand" has become more readily available at clinics throughout the state.

Approximately 1,400, or 10 per cent, of the Missouri women who obtained legal abaortions in 1976 had previous pregnancies aborted. According to Land, these facts show that many pregnancies to Missouri women are unplanned.

Land said that unquestionably some of the increase in illegitimacy and abortion is due to changes in sexual behavior, but the increase also reflects the growing number of young women who were born in the baby boom following World War II. Census figures show that unmarried women aged 15-44 increased 22 per cent between 1970 and 1976.
